nam's demilitarized zone. There are no bathing facilities at the post, so Marines have to make do with water where they find it, which has been most everywhere. (AP Wirephoto)

Soviets Likely at Base

Sprawling Military Complex Left in Flames by U.S. Planes

SAIGON (AP) — American Navy planes today attacked and left burning a sprawling military compound near Haiphong where Russian missiles and helicopters were uncrated and assembled.

It was likely that Soviet technicians work in the base, which previously was on the Pentagon's restricted target list.

U.S. headquarters said all-weather intruder jets hit the base, before dawn Monday and returned for a second predawn strike today. Pilots reported that flames and secondary explosions lighted the night sky.

Heavy new strikes on North Vietnam and the loss of an American jet to a Communist MIG21 in a dogfight was paralleled by sharp ground fighting and the movement of more American troops north to meet the threat of renewed North Vietnamese attacks below the demilitarized zone.

Weather Bad

Loss of a U.S. Air Force C130 transport missing since Sunday with 23 persons was confirmed. The U.S. Command announced the wreckage was spotted on a mountainside between Hue and Da Nang and no survivors were found. All the 18 passengers as well as the five crewmen were believed to have been U.S. military personnel.

A spokesman said there was no information on the cause of the crash, but the weather in that area had been bad for several days.

The U.S. Command said a 4,000-man Army brigade has been shifted into the 1st Corps area, raising American manpower in South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces to about 100,000 and releasing another Marine regiment for duty closer to the DMZ.

As late as last spring, only about 40,000 Americans—two Marine divisions—were stationed in the 1st Corps area.

The missile and helicopter assembly site attacked Monday and today is in an area containing about 70 military barracks and other buildings. It is about three miles from Haiphong, between the city and the MIG airfield of Cat Bi, which also was bombed for the second today.

Pilots from the carrier Con A Oestreicher of La Crosse, Wis., has been killed in action in the burning military base could be seen 20 miles away.

Air Force strikes on the two rail lines from Hanoi to Red China brought out harassing flights of MIG21s, the most advanced attack planes in the North Vietnamese armory.

One flight of MIGs bored in on a mission of slower F105 Thunderchiefs bombing the Quang Kien rail causeway 39 miles northeast of Hanoi. The MIGs shot down one Thunderchief and the pilot was missing. No further details of the dogfight were announced by the Air Force.

The Thunderchief was the 695th U.S. combat plane lost over the North and the 26th shot down by MIGs.

Soviets Release Defense Budget Of $18.5 Billion

15 Per Cent Jump Explained Due to Worldwide Tensions

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today a 15 per cent jump in its published defense spending with the explanation that "international tension demands increased attention to our defenses."

Finance Minister Vasily F. Garbuzov also explained the increase as being needed for "increased aid to other countries." He said the Soviet people staunchly support "the Vietnamese people against American imperialism and Arab nations against Israel."

Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, the Parliament which automatically approves budget proposals, that the 1968 budget will show 16.7 billion rubles—$18.56 billion—for defense, up 2.2 billion rubles—$2.44 billion—from 1967.

Others Hidden Western experts believe that Soviet budget figures hide other military spending.

The increase is the largest in Soviet history.

The 1966-67 U.S. defense budget was $67 billion, and President Johnson has asked a $72.3 billion defense allotment for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

Garbuzov introduced a 1968 budget calling for total expenditure of 123.5 billion rubles, or $137.22 billion. Approval by the Supreme Soviet is a certainty.

9 Per Cent Hike

The 1968 total is an increase of 9 per cent over 1967 spending. Before Garbuzov spoke the chief Soviet economic planner pictured a booming national economy with a few lags at points most directly touching the people.

Deputy Premier Nikolai K. Baibakov, head of the state planning commission, said Soviet national income has increased 7.2 per cent a year in 1966 and 1967.

Industrial production is running far ahead of plan and living standards are increasing faster than the people were promised at the beginning of the 1966-70 plan period, Baibakov claimed.

His statistics indicated that the growth of national income, reported as 7.5 per cent in 1966, had actually slipped this year, although still greater than the planned growth.

Promises Unfulfilled Since Baibakov said the growth rate had averaged 7.2 per cent in the past two years and had been 7.5 per cent in 1966, it appeared that the rate had fallen in 1967.

Baibakov's figures also indicated that for the 10th straight year the Soviet Union has failed to fulfill its promises on how much new housing would be built for the cramped population.

Clintonville Man Aboard

CLINTONVILLE — A 40-year-old Clintonville man who intended to return home "if he didn't get a place on the ship," was among the crew of 42 aboard the stricken ship Panoeanic Faith, which sank off the Alaskan coast Monday evening.

James A. Dhein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Dhein, 132 Stewart St., was a mate on the ship, according to a list released today by Panoeanic Tankers Corp., the New York City firm which owns the vessel.

Several Rescued Although late reports said several men had been rescued from the waters of the North Pacific, no word was available as to the fate of Dhein.

Mrs. Dhein, when contacted this morning by The Post-Crescent, said, "He called us on Sept. 30 and told us he would be coming home if he didn't get a place on the ship." He managed to secure the place, she said, and boarded the ship two weeks ago.

Dhein, who has sailed aboard merchant vessels for the past 15 years, was last home in April, 1966.

Served in Army He was born in Colby, Wis., and attended schools there before the family moved to Clintonville about 23 years ago. He attended Carroll College in Waukesha and served in the Army from 1946 to 1948 before taking up a career on merchant vessels.

Mrs. Dhein said he has been aboard several vessels taking supplies to U.S. troops in South Vietnam.

Ships Hunt Survivors In Pacific

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Ships and planes converged on a spot in the North Pacific today where 42 crewmen jumped from a sinking freighter.

The Coast Guard said the crew of the Panoeanic Faith leaped into the water as the 459-foot vessel sank shortly before dark Monday about 870 miles southwest of Kodiak, Alaska.

One of five merchant vessels which sped to the rescue, the Igaharu Maru, radioed "some bodies" had been picked up and "two men were reported to be alive." In New York, the ship's owners reported the master of the vessel had been picked up.

Distress Signals

Military planes which flew to the scene just after radio calls for assistance were received from the stricken vessel dropped rubber life rafts to crewmen bobbing in life jackets, and the pilot of a Navy plane from Adak, Alaska, reported he saw several men climb into them.

The Panoeanic Faith, hauling fertilizer from San Francisco to India under a U.S. aid program, sank so quickly, the Coast Guard said, that the crew was unable to launch its two lifeboats or two liferafts.

There was fear some who jumped from the vessel could not survive. Authorities said a person rarely lives longer than

Israelis, Arabs in 20-Minute Battle

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli and Jordanian troops fought a 20-minute gun battle across the Jordan River Monday night with machine guns and light arms, the Israeli army said today. There reportedly were no Israeli casualties.

An Israeli spokesman said an Israeli army truck was ambushed on a road near Jericho, the driver shot back and a patrol came to his aid. As the Arab attackers fled across the river, machine-gun fire opened up from the Jordanian side, the spokesman said. The Israelis returned the fire.

Ernesto Che Guevara was in the Bolivian jungle masterminding a revolution, Bolivian officials claimed when they released this photo recently. They say it was captured from guerrillas. He was killed in fighting Monday, according to the Bolivians. (AP Wirephoto)

Bolivia Army Says It Killed Revolutionary Che Guevara

Military Leader Can't Confirm Report of Death During Clash

LA PAZ (AP) — The Bolivian army command withheld confirmation today of a local commander's report that Ernesto Che Guevara has been killed but planned to fly newsmen to the remote area where army dispatches said he died leading a guerrilla band.

The high command's invitation to the journalists suggested it would display a body reported to be that of Guevara, the leading theorist of Communist revolt in Latin America.

The former lieutenant of Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba was reported killed Sunday in a clash at Higuera, about 400 miles southeast of La Paz. Col. Joaquin Zeneno Anaya, commander of the 5th Army in the area, said Guevara was one of a number of guerrilla casualties.

'Body With Army' The army's chief of staff, Col. Marcos Vasquez Semperlegui, noted that official reports from Vallegrande, near Higuera, "affirm Guevara was killed and that his body is now with the Bolivian army." But he emphasized that he could not confirm the dispatches.

The official reports said: "The rebels put up desperate resistance and suffered five casualties, among them presumably Ernesto Che Guevara." Some military sources said Guevara was mortally wounded and talked to his captors before he died.

Many Reports

Guevara's legend has been sprinkled with reports of his death or capture since he mysteriously disappeared from Cuba in 1965. He was said to have died in the leftist revolt in the Dominican Republic, to have been captured in Peru, hiding out in his native Argentina, scouting the Congo and a visitor in Red China. Two weeks ago the Bolivian army denied a report that its forces had killed him.

At a meeting of the Organization of American States in Washington last month, Bolivian diplomats produced photographs of a man who looked like Guevara talking with Bolivian and Cuban guerrillas. They claimed the photos showed he was heading the rebels in Bolivia's isolated mountain regions.

French Marxist Regis Debray, now on trial for aiding the guerrilla movement, has testified that he came to Bolivia to interview Guevara. The Bolivian army had been searching in the Vallegrande area for about 10 days after two captured guerrillas said he was in the region.

Guevara's training as a guerrilla came in Castro's Sierra Maestra Mountain campaign that led to the overthrow of President Fulgencio Batista in January 1959.

He became Castro's economic minister, then vanished in 1965. Castro said Guevara had gone elsewhere to lead new insurrections.

Rockefeller-Reagan Best Ticket?

Poll Puts Nixon Far Out in Front of Romney

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has topped a nationwide Associated Press poll of Republican leaders who were asked to name their favorite for the GOP presidential nomination next year.

However, the strongest potential ticket would be composed of Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, those participating in the survey replied. A Nixon-Reagan combination ran second.

Associated Press bureaus submitted a three-part questionnaire to the state chairmen and members of the GOP National Committee in all 50 states. About half replied.

The questions and results were:

1. Whom do you favor for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination?

Nixon—46 per cent
Gov. George Romney—26
Rockefeller—14
Reagan—7
Others—7

2. Which Republican has the best chance of defeating President Johnson?

Nixon—41 per cent
Rockefeller—25
Romney—23
Reagan—11
Others—11

3. What combination of candidates for president and vice president would offer the strongest ticket?

Rockefeller-Reagan—40 per cent
Nixon-Reagan—25
Nixon-Sen. Charles Percy—11
Romney-Reagan—11
Others—13

As expected, much of Nixon's support came from Republican leaders in the South and Southwest but he had votes in some Midwest and Far Western states as well.

Some of those who participated in the survey indicated that while they consider Nixon the GOP's best qualified candidate, they have misgivings as to whether he can win. He lost the presidential election in 1960 and the race for governor of California in 1962.

Said Idaho State Chairman John McMurray, "They (Idaho working Republicans) still have reservations. If he shows well in the early primaries Nixon will be hard to stop."

Similarly, Mrs. J. C. Mann, Texas national committeewoman said she considers Nixon the "best qualified" and that she has strongly supported him before. She added, "But I want somebody to win this time. I don't believe that the people who go to conventions and choose candidates are always representative of the way the people feel who will be voting."

A significant result of the poll was Reagan's strong showing. He was mentioned more times than any other potential candidate as the choice for the vice presidential nomination.

"Reagan is coming up all the time," said Mrs. Tom Abernathy, Alabama national committeewoman. "He's looking better all over the nation and some others are not looking quite so good."

Replies to the question about the strongest ticket, a party leader said, "Rockefeller and Reagan—either way."

Rockefeller and Reagan have both said they are not candidates. Teaming, some of those questioned said, would give the party a balanced ticket which would appeal to both the conservatives and moderates.

Rockefeller ran ahead of Gov. George Romney of Michigan—whom he supports for the nomination—in answers to the question of which Republican would stand the best chance of beating the President. In some replies, GOP chiefs indicated they felt Romney's "brainwashing" statement may have cost him some support.

However, John C. Jordan, Pennsylvania state chairman said, "Our private polls show that Romney, or a Romney-type moderate, would be the strongest candidate we can nominate."

Planners Offer Model Control For Floodplains

NWRPC Prepares Zoning Ordinance for Member Counties

A model shoreline and floodplain zoning ordinance prepared by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NWRPC) will be modified and sent to member counties for consideration within the next two weeks, according to William E. Morris, NWRPC executive director.

County board members, planners and agriculture agents met Monday to discuss the ordinance. Relatively few objections were voiced, but points were raised that will require some modifications.

Morris said the meeting helped members' understanding and will aid in developing fairly uniform ordinances throughout the commission's nine-county area.

The ordinance modeled somewhat after other ordinances prepared by the state, the University of Wisconsin Extension Service and the County Boards Association — was prepared to meet the particular needs of the nine-county area, he said.

"But this is only a model ordinance," Morris said. "Each county will have some points it may have to change to fit the ordinance to their particular needs."

Morris said the NWRPC will continue to aid member counties after they have passed shoreline ordinances. This will come through helping zoning administrators and committees understand all aspects of their particular ordinance.

Aid Members

The NWRPC staff also will help member counties write up their ordinance. This is currently being done in some of the counties and will take from six to eight weeks, Morris said.

Shoreline and flood-plan zoning ordinances are required by the state in each county by Jan. 1, 1968.

For those counties not having such ordinances by that time, the state will have the right to prepare an ordinance, at the county's expense.

Public hearings will be conducted in each county before a final ordinance is adopted.

Suspect Told Police George Was 'Tearing the House Apart'

Preliminary steps had been taken Sept. 15 to have George Schmidt, 82, committed to Winnebago State Hospital, it was revealed today.

The action was taken after police were summoned to his home by his wife, Marie, about 12:50 p.m. Sept. 15. When Mrs. Schmidt called police, she told them her husband, George, was "tearing the house apart," and that he was "drunk." She also said he had tipped over chairs.

Police said Mrs. Schmidt, prime suspect in the strange butcher case in which her husband was the victim, asked police Sept. 15 that he be committed to "a home." Police informed her that she would have to take the necessary

Thin Wall Is Cause of Fire

Structure Ignited By Heat of Furnace; Damage Extensive

A thin, frame wall constructed around a furnace and chimney pipe was blamed for a fire that extensively damaged the Earl Sambs home, 903 W. Grant St., early Saturday morning.

The finding was made late this morning, following an investigation by Appleton Fire Department officials and State Fire Marshal Earl Schwalbe. Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl said that about 10 years ago Sambs constructed a thin wall around the furnace and chimney pipe. Kuehnl said that investigation showed there was only 1 1/4-inch space between the wall and the chimney pipe.

The wood in the wall had dried to the point of being highly inflammable under the right conditions, Kuehnl said. With the furnace in operation early Saturday, the wood ignited, he said.

The enclosed furnace was located in the first-level recreation room, in the first-level home.

Fire officials had said earlier that the heaviest concentration of fire seemed to be in the furnace area. The recreation room was completely burned out, and the remainder of the house sustained considerable smoke, water and heat damage. The loss could run as high as $10,000, it was learned.

Mrs. Sambs, two of her three children, and a girlfriend of one daughter were sleeping in the house when Mrs. Sambs discovered the blaze about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. All escaped unharmed, but a small dog, that was in the basement, died.

Funds Okayed for UW-GB Site Work

Claim Move Will Aid in Meeting 1969 Deadline; Martin Dissents

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — On a 6-2 vote, the state Building Commission Monday approved the release of $73,600 for the first on-site development work for new University of Wisconsin branch campuses in Green Bay and Kenosha County.

The move came over the objection of Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, who attempted to block the move by arguing that no actual construction work should be done on the new schools until the completion of working drawings.

The move was suggested by UW officials and staff analysts who calculated that it could save up to 10 days in their attempts to open the new schools on schedule in September, 1969.

The authorization does not include the power to lay foundations for the four buildings on the battles slowed the development of the two campuses. Many of the staff analysts feel that that step should be the most important one.

Foundation Excavation

The release of the funds — which $39,100 will be used at the UW-GB — will allow the start of some site preparation work and including that of Molnar — for the excavation needed for the foundations.

State engineer, Ralph Culbertson told the commission, in response to Martin's objections, that the work, including the abandon Martin's position and excavations, could be done before the completion of the working drawings because the Gov. Warren P. Knowles, commission secretary Gerald Emmer, Sen. Dennis Leonard, R-Bayside, Kordus, Gee, and Sen. William Hansen, Stevens Point.

Two structures are planned on each campus.

Appleton School District May Need Extra $193,690 for Transportation

Money Would be for Carrying All City Students at Least 1 1/2 Mile From Classes

An estimated additional $193,690 will have to be added to the limits.

This information was released to the board of education Monday night by Roland Nock, director of transportation.

The study was made at the request of the board after a group of parents from one school in the system requested transportation for their children who live within the city limits and almost 2 miles from the school.

Under the new state law, which demands equal treatment in transportation, no exceptions can be made; the same kind of transportation will have to be made available to the other schools in the city, both parochial and public.

According to the study, there are 1,514 pupils in the public schools who live at least 1 1/2 miles from school and within the city limits. Transportation costs paid on High Street by Anthony would come to $105,990 for these schools.

In the four grade and one Catholic high schools in the system and the two grade and one Lutheran high school, there are 1,253 students who would qualify at a cost of $87,710.

Funds Okayed for UW-GB Site Work

Claim Move Will Aid in Meeting 1969 Deadline; Martin Dissents

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — On a 6-2 vote, the state Building Commission Monday approved the release of $73,600 for the first on-site development work for new University of Wisconsin branch campuses in Green Bay and Kenosha County.

The move came over the objection of Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, who attempted to block the move by arguing that no actual construction work should be done on the new schools until the completion of working drawings.

The move was suggested by UW officials and staff analysts who calculated that it could save up to 10 days in their attempts to open the new schools on schedule in September, 1969.

The authorization does not include the power to lay foundations for the four buildings on the battles slowed the development of the two campuses. Many of the staff analysts feel that that step should be the most important one.

Foundation Excavation

The release of the funds — which $39,100 will be used at the UW-GB — will allow the start of some site preparation work and including that of Molnar — for the excavation needed for the foundations.

State engineer, Ralph Culbertson told the commission, in response to Martin's objections, that the work, including the abandon Martin's position and excavations, could be done before the completion of the working drawings because the Gov. # $2.25 Million Airport Bond Issue Probable

A $2.25 million bond issue may be asked of the county board by the Airport Committee to complete development of the Outagamie County Airport.

The committee discussed the bond issue possibility Tuesday morning but did not reach a final decision on the exact amount or what projects would be included. Another meeting will be scheduled before the Oct. 17 meeting of the county board, according to committee chairman Supv. Paul Kostka (Little Chute).

Ralph Burke Associates, airport consultants, has submitted an estimate of $2,026,950 to complete the airport construction. This would include completing runway and taxiway construction, additional aircraft parking aprons, new terminal building, fire station, parking facilities and additional air easements.

Pay Note

Funds from the proposed bond issue also would be used to pay off the $600,000 short-term note the county obtained to construct an extension on the northeast-southwest runway now nearing completion.

Committee members indicated the Burke Associates proposal would be considered a three to five-year plan and that not all of the recommended construction would be done in the initial phase.

Of the 17 items included in the recommendations, the committee felt that about nine of them, all dealing with runway and taxiway construction, were the most urgent with the other eight coming at a later time.

The runway and taxiway work would complete the taxiways for both of the runways and extend the northeast-southwest runway from 6,500 feet to 7,000 feet and

Methodist Leader Says Church Ready To Meet Issues

"The Church can no longer hide from controversial issues, and still be the Church in today's changing world," a former Appleton clergyman, citing the active part played in the Milwaukee marches, told an Appleton First Methodist Church group here Monday night.

The non-violent attitude in terms of tactics, of the movement is due to the involvement of the Church which is ecumenical in nature, the Milwaukee superintendent of the Methodist Church contended.

The Rev. Marvin Schilling, speaking to his former congregation said the Church is still very much on hand and serving where it is needed to aid the aspirations of the oppressed people of the area.

Commission Disagrees On Meter Maid Move

Appleton's meter maids should charge of the meter department, stay under the jurisdiction of the police department, the city parking commission contended Monday.

During a late afternoon meeting at the city hall, the commission voted 4-1 to ask the city council to reconsider its previous action of proposing a transfer of the checkers from the police to the meter department.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), council president and chairman of the public safety committee, was the lone dissenter.

Points to Opinion

The commission pointed to a recent legal opinion by City Atty. David Geenen that under terms of existing bond issues the cost and salaries of maintaining the meter maids could not be transferred to the parking commission.

Salaries of meter maids included over the past years in the police department budget, amounted to about $25,000 annually.

Acting on other matters, the commission concurred in the recommendation of the personnel director and asked the council to boost the salary of Donald Heinritz, who is in

Groups Okay Operation of School Pool

City to Rent AHS-E Facility During Off Hours

Rules, regulations and fees for the operation of the Appleton High School-East swimming pool have been agreed on by the recreation department and the board of education.

They were presented to the board Monday night by William Pickett, director of physical education, health and safety in the Appleton Public School System, who acted as coordinator.

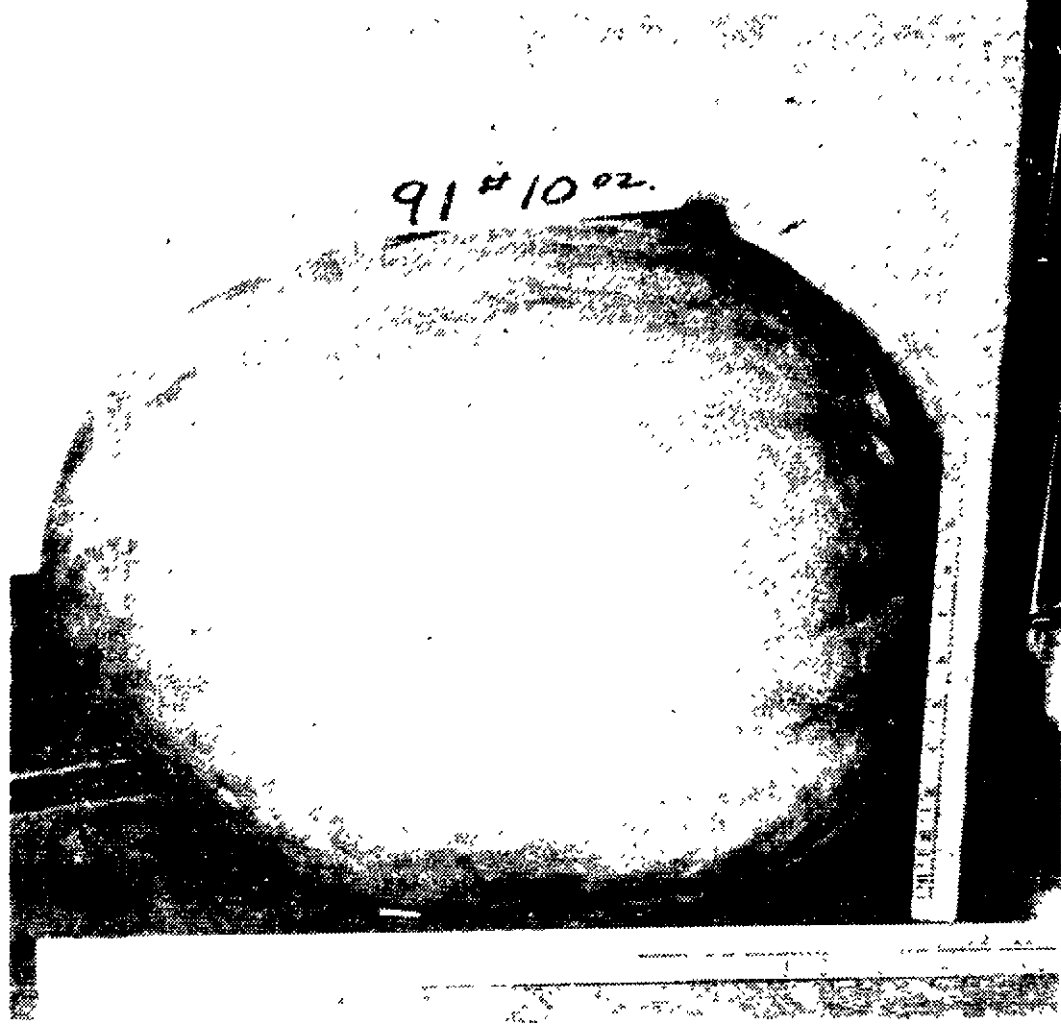

"It has been understood that anything adopted at this time be effective from Sept. 20, 1967 to Sept. 1, 1968, and will serve only as an experimental period to better understand the problems," Pickett said.

Pool Provisions

The rules state that the recreation department be given the use of the pool any time not scheduled for school-related activities and not before 6:30 p.m. on school days.

The rental will cover costs of heat, light, water and the standard wage for the pool manager and engineer. A $20 an hour rental has been agreed on. Locker room supervision, life guards and program director will be paid for by the recreation department.

"In short," Pickett said, "we are trying to cover all costs to the board of education and at the same time making it as cheap as possible for the recreation department."

A 91-Pound, 10-Ounce pumpkin was raised this year by Cyril Mader, Lamers Road, Kimberly. The pumpkin which measured 16 inches across and was 19 inches deep was not as large as one raised last year by Mader, but it was 20 pounds heavier. A guessing contest on the weight of the pumpkin was held at a Combined Locks bar and guesses ranged from 45 to 145 pounds. The bar is running a contest for the heaviest pumpkin, tomato, potato and onion. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Wisconsin Fifth Highest

'Cycle' Works on State Taxes

NEENAH — The undesirable position of Wisconsin as the fifth most taxed state in the nation may be altered if the "cycle theory" of a Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance official proves true.

C. K. Alexander, vice president of the WTA, pointed to the increasing taxes in the neighboring states of Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois and Iowa in the past year in a talk to the Neenah Club Monday noon.

"Tax revisions seem to run in cycles," Alexander said. Noting the various means of raising revenues in midwestern states, he said that Wisconsin went through "the same misery" in 1961-63.

He said Minnesota recently put in a sales tax; Michigan, both a corporate and individual income tax, and both Illinois and Iowa had to boost their sales and cigarette taxes.

Alexander said the per capita tax figure in Wisconsin of $343 "doesn't tell the whole story."

The personal income and expenditures in the state are near the national level, he stated, citing three areas which have given Wisconsin the unfavorable tax position.

Alexander said the state receives "much fewer federal aids," making it 47th in that category. Also, Wisconsin has been "paying as it goes," accounting for its 32nd position in state and local debt. In direct financing, the state ranks 30th.

He noted the state "so far has been able to finance a 24 per cent executive budget expansion without state tax increases" but predicted the pressures would increase with the fall session of the legislature starting next week.

Income Down

Rasmussen said the city's parking fund could use the revenue, because income has been down about 15 per cent this year due to the College Avenue reconstruction, and other factors.

Past Deadline

It was reported that the firm awarded the contract by the city for cashier equipment still had to install. The deadline was Sept. 29.

Rasmussen said ramp revenue averaged about $1,400 a month since August, and was an impressive figure considering that parking is 25 cents a day under the existing improvised cashier system.

'68 Menasha School Budget Shows 24 Per Cent Increase

MENASHA — The first draft of a 1968 school budget for the Menasha Joint School District, with a $2.0 million total figure, was considered in a work session Monday night with the board of education, fiscal control body and school administrators.

The $2.0 million budget proposal, an increase of 24 per cent above last year, carries an increased tax levy of $340.410 for the city and town. Yet the board has included only one of the items it deferred in paring last year's budget.

"We have a budget for 1968, considerably higher than the current budget," Supt. M. J. Gegan said.

"The board members have had an opportunity to review the figures which we are presenting tonight for your consideration and suggestions." The board and

Wasp Latest Tool in Elm Disease Fight

WASHINGTON — The latest thing in the control of Dutch Elm Disease is another insect, according to studies being conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The elm bark beetle, which carried the fatal fungus to 150 trees in the Twin Cities this past summer, may have met its match with a tiny parasitic wasp, imported from Europe. Recently, USDA biologists released one million wasps in the forests of Michigan in experiment they call "the most promising biological control to date."

The new weapon, less than half an inch long, is the natural enemy of the beetle. Vampire-style, the wasp larva kills by inserting its mouth hooks into beetle larva and draining its body juices.

The wasp attacks only elm bark beetles and is not a potential pest. Although USDA officials feel the wasps cannot eradicate the beetle, they may reduce its numbers enough to allow American elms time to build resistance against the fungus.

Another possibility in the battle against Dutch Elm Disease is offered through research in genetics. The long-range goal of the USDA's Tree Disease Center at Beltsville, Md., is a cross between the American and Siberian elms, combining the appearance of one with the disease resistance of the other.

Recreation Group Okays Park Plan

Eye $44.8 Million to Develop,
$49.9 Million to Buy New Sites

MADISON — The governor's task force on the Outdoor Recreation Act Program (ORAP) met recent criticism of legislators Monday, when at the end of a day-long session in Madison it approved $44.5 million to develop park and recreational lands by 1980.

Recognizing, however, that the primary intent of ORAP, and the one-cent a pack tax on cigarettes to pay for it, was to acquire park lands before they were priced out of the state budget, the task force also approved $49.4 million to buy 510,000 additional acres of recreational lands.

Under the proposed program, approximately half rather than the present 40 per cent, of the cost of operating and maintaining these state lands would be paid for by the user public.

The program committee, which met Monday morning, along with other committees, recommended at the afternoon session that the Natural Resources Board give full consideration to charging a higher out-of-state user fee before raising resident fees. A bill now before the legislature would raise state park annual sticker fees from $2 to $3.

The ORAP plan as proposed by the 18-month-old task force, expected to be sent soon to Gov. Warren P. Knowles and to the legislature which will open its fall term Oct. 17.

Task force approval of a tentative plan was given at a meeting last January. However, the problem of financing remained, and this finally has been worked out with a three-pronged recommendation.

To accelerate a permanent program, rather than the 10-year plan called for under the original ORAP bill, the task force approved transferring the cigarette tax to the general fund. Since this tax is equal to 165/10,000 of 1 per cent of the equalized value of physical property in Wisconsin, the formula would apply annually.

Bonding and user fees would supplement the general fund income.

Added to the proposal since January was the creation of two new year-around youth conservation camps in southeastern Wisconsin. Each camp would accommodate 1,000 boys for group camping when not used as work camps.

Compensate Governments

Another proposal would compensate local governments for all state recreational land acquisition in an amount equal to full property taxes at the time of acquisition, and in decreasing amounts over a 10-year period. Ten annual payments would be made, starting at 100 per cent the first year and decreasing 10 per cent each year thereafter.

The task force local tax base committee, although approving the plan, urged further study of the impact of state purchase on local communities with the possibility that payments be made according to state zones rather than on a flat rate, and that a review board be set up to hear complaints from local governments.

In other action the task force recommended the creation of new lakes, preservation of historic sites on a planned program, addition of wild rivers preservation, adequate funding for tourist information centers, funding for highway easements, acceleration of water inventory and use planning, and expansion of local aid for parks in large metropolitan areas such as southeastern Wisconsin and the Fox Valley.

Filtering Grant Being Studied

Appleton Asking Federal Funds for Water Plant Annex

Appleton's application for a federal grant to help finance construction of a $1.5 million addition to the water filtration plant is now under review.

Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) notified Mayor George Buckley Monday that information to that effect had been received from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in Chicago.

Francis D. Fisher, regional administrator for HUD, said all reports had been received from regional and state planning agencies as requested sometime

An Award of Merit citation was presented to the Catholic Order of Foresters at the mid-year meeting of the Wisconsin Fraternal Congress Saturday at the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) building in Appleton. Presenting the award, far right, is M. J. Emerson, president of the Equitable Reserve Association, and a past president of the Congress. Accepting, center, is George Schneider, general agent, Marshfield. Looking on are Cyrus Rachie, senior vice president and general counsel for AAL; Mrs. Anthony Domino, president, National Catholic Society of Foresters, Chicago; Schneider; Gerald Herzfeldt, vice president and director of fraternal affairs for AAL, and Emerson.

Kaukauna Utility Eyes Plans To Double Generating Power

KAUKAUNA — Four bids for Wisconsin Public Service Commission. The city currently has a capacity of 15,000 kilowatts from five hydro plants. Capacity of plants, which have bid, range from a low of 15,000 kilowatts to a peak load of 22,300 depending on the type of fuel used and the unit purchased.

General Electric submitted a bid of $1,369,650 with delivery in October, 1968; Westinghouse, $1,892,750, delivery in July, 1968; Pratt and Whitney Corp., $1,342,441, delivery in Jan., 1969, and Arson Electric Industries, Manchester, England, $1,580,000, delivery in August, 1969.

The unit will be located on the site of the old Lieber Lumber Co. on the island. The time element will be considered in the purchase because additional power is needed to meet the growing demands of the city and outlying areas served by the Kaukauna Utility.

All bids listed the normal operating loads and the peak of emergency operation when using gas or oil as fuel.

Previously, the city was assured of a $793,000 grant for construction of a Lake Winnebago pipeline — the project a phase of the city's water expansion program.

Police Want More Phones

company has agreed to reserve a block of seven phone numbers in sequence for the police department for possible future expansion.

Unlisted Numbers

The first four numbers would be installed in the near future to cope with the immediate problem, it was explained.

There would also be unlisted numbers for detectives and staff personnel to keep them from tying up the emergency number lines when calling out of the station.

In effect, Wolff recommended the installation of two additional lines to raise the total to six.

Copies of the proposal were sent to Mayor George Buckley and Finance Director Henry Schreve.

Once approved by the committee and council, the police department telephone numbers school aids and said local government were in "a squeeze mind in dealing with govern-

Towns Asked To Reform To Meet Times

LaFollette Calls on Governments to Change for 'Survival'

LAKE DELTON — Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette called on towns to meet the changing times and urged townships to lead the way in an address given to the 20th Annual Convention on the Wisconsin Towns Association here today.

LaFollette cited examples of smaller townships which were ineffective because of fiscal mismanagement and said change was "absolutely necessary for the town form of government to survive."

He said that the town form of government had been attacked by many cities because of its inefficient administration, but he noted that if the town form was failing, it wouldn't be a failure of the governmental structure.

"If towns become obsolete, then it will be by default," LaFollette said. He urged reform to meet modern governmental demands.

Should Consolidate

Those towns which are underpopulated and "starved for financial resources should consolidate," he said. He called on towns with substantial resources to lead the reform of town government in order to meet future demands.

Turning to urban towns, the attorney general noted that their needs differ from the more rural areas. He said that towns should carefully analyze their positions in order to meet future demands.

Noting that he had rendered an opinion on bill - 582-A, which would amend the so-called Oak Creek Bill allowing townships of 1,000 population and valuation of $20 million to incorporate, LaFollette said that the battle for annexation and incorporation should be fought on political grounds in the legislature. He said, the people living under the township form of government should determine the future.

Partisan Slap

Taking a partisan slap at the present state administration, the Democrat called the governor and the legislature "irresponsible in dealing with the financial needs of local communities."

LaFollette pointed to the cuts made in pollution grants and second day of the convention, stressing the need for an open eight years: Robert Wittman, six years and George Vanden Hogen, five years.

Autumn Chill Alters Habits Of Shoppers

A week ago Appleton department stores were selling blouses on the condition that the store would press them immediately. Women shoppers who left home in sweaters in the morning, were sweltering in 83 degree temperatures by afternoon.

Monday and today, gloves, scarves and jackets were moving after last night's weather report of snow falling in the northern part of the state. And with frost and freezing warnings for tonight, the sun which shown most of the day is a real fooler. Temperatures already were dropping at noon today.

Snow on Ground

An inch of snow remained on the ground this morning at Park Falls. Two inches fell in the Hurley-Ironwood area Monday.

Elsewhere in Wisconsin light rain fell. LaCrosse recorded .19 of an inch. Madison and Lone Rock .10, Burlington .11 and Appleton .03.

Temperatures Monday were as much as 20 degrees below normal. Racine set the state high of 49. Other top readings ranged down to 36 at Superior.

At night, the mercury dropped to a freezing 31 at Superior and 32 at Madison and Burlington. Park Falls, Green Bay and Lone Rock dipped to 33. Eau Claire and Appleton 34, Milwaukee, LaCrosse and Wausau 35 and Racine 40.

Young Prowler Caught in Chilton Home

CHILTON — A 13-year-old boy suspected of a series of prowling incidents here was surprised early Monday morning and taken into custody by city police.

Police Chief Dan Albedyll said the boy was captured by George Yerkman, Reed Street, at 6 a.m. after Mrs. Yerkman was awakened by noises in the home.

Police said there have been three other complaints of prowlers, all occurring early in the morning.

The boy, who has no previous record, was turned over to his parents.

His mother, Mrs. Yerkman, was expected on a smaller fiscal base from the local governments.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles gave the opening address during the convention, year-award, Edward Kaphingst, eight years; Robert Wittman, six years and George Vanden Hogen, five years.

Young GOP Pick Oshkosh

60-Day Convention Moratorium Before Primary Wins Okay

O SHKOSH — The state's Young Republicans have chosen Oshkosh as their convention city next spring, and have bowed to a senior party call for a 60-day "moratorium" on conventions before the primary election next April 2.

The moratorium, request by Ody Fish, state party chairman, and the senior party executive board, is viewed as further extension of policy aimed at preserving party unity against potential divisions over backing the various potential presidential nomination contenders.

The Young Republican executive board unanimously endorsed the policy and, while putting off a definite decision on the date for their state convention, generally expressed favor for the last week in April.

Opposing Sites

Oshkosh and Milwaukee were pitted against each other in the bidding for selection as convention city, with Oshkosh winning in a 10-9 vote after the Milwaukee County group withdrew its bid. Joe Garlock, chairman of Winnebago County Young Republicans, offered the Oshkosh arguments.

The group met here in 1966.

The pre-primary moratorium on major party events has been announced as intended to give candidates for the Republican presidential nomination an open field for campaigning. The state party also has discouraged official units of the party from supporting any of the several likely candidates before the primary. Both policies are seen as aimed at preserving party unity.

Postal Department Employees Honored For Safe Driving

KAUKAUNA — Five drivers for the postal department received safe driving awards from the National Safety Council recently, the awards presented by Robert Grogan, postmaster, to the men who drive daily and have accident free records.

Jack Tulloch received a 15-year award, Donald Wenzel a 14-year-award, Edward Kaphingst, eight years; Robert Wittman, six years and George Vanden Hogen, five years.

Advice Wisconsin Teachers Do Not Need

Taxpayers in this area who have been shocked at what increases in local school budgets will cost them next year must have been intensely interested in advice Wisconsin teachers received at the convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (AFT-CIO) in Milwaukee last week.

The speakers were teacher union officials at the national level or those who have been involved in contract negotiations and strikes in some of the nation's larger cities. Here are a few samples of what they had to say:

"It is inevitable that Wisconsin teachers face the use of the strike instrument." . . . "There will be walkouts in Wisconsin and you must face the further eventuality of jail sentences." . . . "There are three things you can bargain for — money, time and rights. There is always more money which the board can find. The biggest fight of all will be the teachers' demands to select textbooks, set building policies and establish the child's total educational program." . . . "Our future demands will call for the right of teachers to elect their own superintendents and principals."

The Post-Crescent over a period of years has supported higher salaries for teachers. There can be no argument that teachers should be compensated on an equitable basis with other professionals of like educational qualifications and responsibilities. And it is readily apparent in the teacher contracts being negotiated currently that starting salaries at least are rapidly reaching that level.

But there are two very disturbing aspects of the outside advice Wisconsin teachers received at Milwaukee. First, the speakers could be generally categorized as professional union organizers who are applying the pressure tactics developed by the Reuthers and the Hoffas to the field of teacher contract negotiations. One remarked that teachers will be effective when they realize they are "workers in a labor force" and not saccharin professionals.

Secondly, when the teachers' union begins discussing the right to manage school systems, they are entering explosive ground. It is traditional in America that local school systems be governed by local citizen boards. Certainly these boards should be advised and counseled by appointed administrators with broad educational experience, but the principle that the boards are ultimately responsible to the citizens of the community for the overall administration of the school system is as sound as it is old.

"When you give away one right, you can never get it back," one of the speakers declared. He was implying that teachers possessed the right to manage the schools in the first place.

Actually it is just the other way around, and his advice should be heeded instead by the members of every school board in the state.

Gen. Ridgway on Korea and Vietnam

Although he has not spoken in the same terms lately, there was a time when President Johnson referred to his critics on Vietnam as weak-kneed and inferred that they were only cowards. A new critic has written a book and he can hardly be called craven.

General Matthew Ridgway, a West Point graduate and professional soldier, saw extensive combat duty in World War II. In the Korean conflict he became supreme commander of the United Nations forces, replacing General Douglas MacArthur. He later commanded NATO forces and then became Army Chief of Staff when Dwight Eisenhower was President. Clearly his service has been extensive and in the best military tradition.

But General Ridgway issues some warnings about our current involvement in Vietnam in his recently published book, The Korean War. And he sees some parallels between the two conflicts which don't exactly encourage those who hope for an American victory and a democratic regime in the South.

The greatest danger is Chinese intervention and Ridgway points to the error MacArthur made in pooh-poohing any such chances in Korea. We expect too much from air power, Ridgway says and points out that in spite of the Allied air supremacy in World War II, the Germans maintained 26 divisions south of the Alps in Italy. Much the same thing happened in Korea and "in Vietnam, results to date have repeated this lesson. Rails and bridges are repaired and functioning within a few days of a bomb attack and infiltration routes have not been cut off. Yet we hear calls for saturation bombing." Korea, he writes, was "a prime example of how mistaken it is to imagine that an enemy's supply lines can be interdicted through air power alone . . . It has always been easy for men removed from the conflict to envision cheap and easy solutions, through naval blockades and saturation bombing. But any man who has fought a war from close up must know that, vital as are the sea and air arms of our combat forces, only ground action can destroy the armed forces of the enemy — unless of course resort is had to obliteration attacks with nuclear weapons. There is simply no such thing as 'chocking off' supply lines in a country as wild as North Korea, or in jungle country either."

Ridgway sees the present course of the war leading to a nuclear attack upon China.

Kraft Writes

Republicans Getting Set to Blame Democrats for Coming Inflation

BY JOSEPH KRAFT
WASHINGTON — Watching the last inning of the first game of the World Series, President Johnson pulled from his pocket a slip of paper showing the steady rise of interest rates over the past year.

That slip of paper expresses the true meaning of the fight in the Congress over the President's proposed tax increase. Basically, the Republicans are trying to delay action on the program to the point that assures a stiff dose of inflation certain to be blamed on the Democrats.

To understand what this is all about, it is first necessary to develop a sense of the way the country lines up around the proposal for a tax increase. The overwhelming evidence is that most of the country is bitterly against the tax rise spending, it would put at least part of the Republican Party in the position of doing the President's dirty work for him.

To head off that eventually, the Republican leadership in the House developed the strategy of linking support for the tax increase with action by the administration to cut back spending on a massive scale. Thus the Dartmouth College Wing of the party could come out for the tax increase provided the administration agreed to pare down spending by from $5 to $7 billion.

The administration refused the gambit, trying instead to win over Republican votes by emphasizing programs that would have to be scrapped if spending was cut. But on two test votes the Republicans in the House stood solidly behind the principle of tying tax increases to spending decreases.

With the Republicans standing so firm, a great many southern Democrats found that package attractive also. As yet, accordingly, there is no majority in the House Ways and Means Committee for the tax increase. Thus, the committee voted to put the tax increase aside until the matter of cuts in spending and a tax hike had been thrashed out.

COMPELLING CASE

In the long run, the administration is likely to get a tax increase without drastic cuts in expenditures. The serious danger of inflation makes a compelling case.

But Republicans can now vote any way they please on the tax increase, asserting that the party took its big stand on cuts in spending. And already they are setting their sights on bigger game.

They are beginning to tick off, more in sorrow than in anger, the numerous warnings they have issued to the administration on the matter of inflation. In a major floor speech Tuesday, John Byrnes of Wisconsin, the minority spokesman on taxes in the House, listed in laborious detail five such occasions running from February, 1966 through June, 1967.

Behind this emphasis is an obvious tactic. The Republicans believe they can now head off any tax increase until next year. By that time it will probably be too late to damp down inflationary forces. And so the Republicans are getting ready to tag the Democrats with the blame for the heady dose of inflation that is on the way.

Kraft

BUSINESSMEN WON OVER

The one big exception is the business community. Having been won over to the new economics in the past few years, business leaders have declared themselves almost unanimous for higher taxes as an anti-inflationary measure.

In this situation, the tax increase proposal presented a real danger to the Republicans. What cynics call the Dartmouth College Wing of the party — its most serious members who pride themselves on their sense of responsibility and who have belatedly developed a dim understanding of the new economics — was likely to follow the business leadership in supporting the tax increase despite its unpopularity.

That would not only split them off from the more orthodox Republicans opposed to most tax increases and all new

Red Cross Appreciates Help Newspaper Gives It

Editor, Post-Crescent.

With the opening of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 8 to 14, the Outagamie County Chapter of the American Red Cross wishes to express their thanks to The Post-Crescent and their very able staff for the indispensable role they play in the day to day operations of the American Red Cross.

Their generous support has enabled us to reach hundreds of readers with information about the assistance Red Cross can give them, and the help we need from them to perform these services.

Newspapers and newspapermen have played an important part in the development of the American Red Cross. In 1881 it was a committee of Wash-ton newspapermen that gave the needed help to Clara Barton in getting the organization started. From 1918 through World War II such well known newspapermen as William Allen White, Will Rogers, Ernie Pyle, Paul Gallico and Quentin Reynolds were staunch supporters of the American Red Cross.

As a participant of the current United Givers Campaign, we are aware of the tremendous help your excellent coverage will contribute to its success, and we wish to take this opportunity to say thank you.

Wisconsin Report
State Pioneering in Financial Assistance To College Students

BY THOMAS H. MORAN
MADISON — Wisconsin has long been recognized as a leader among the states in making a high quality higher education available for its youth and making it possible for most qualified students to attend the college of their choice regardless of their financial circumstances.

Moran

That this is so, naturally, is a tribute to our farsighted elected officials and educators. While educators have been active in pointing out problem areas and suggesting solutions, our governors and legislators have responded with higher education programs of depth, breadth and sensitivity.

The vast area of financial support for students has been a continuing concern of governmental leaders and educators alike. That concern was crystallized only a few years ago with the establishment of the Higher Educational Aids Board, which is responsible for directing most student financial aid programs in Wisconsin.

NEED PRINCIPAL YARD-STICK

The board's concern and actions have taken into account the changing concepts in financial aid for students. At one time, aid was awarded primarily as a reward for scholastic ability. The average student was left to fend for himself.

Today, aid is granted to any qualified student on the basis of that student's need for funds to attend the college of his choice. This change has paralleled changes in higher education itself, which no longer is looked upon as a luxury, but rather a necessity in a rapidly changing society.

For example, Wisconsin has expanded its student loan program over the last 10 years until it now amounts to $20 million. This loan program has enabled thousands of students to pursue a higher education though their attendance might have been forestalled without such a program.

Another program, established in 1965, has made it possible for a student to select a private college or university. The tuition grant program, now being enacted by several other states, provides up to $500 a year to students attending Wisconsin's private colleges and universities to offset rising costs of tuition.

APPLICATION METHOD EASY

The many and diverse aids programs have caused the Higher Educational Aids Board to develop a procedure whereby all high school seniors interested in continuing their education can complete a simple application for financial aid while still in school and be assured of receiving consideration under all aid programs for which they are eligible.

The executive secretary of the Commission for Higher Educational Aids was asked to describe the state assistance available for the young people of Wisconsin who are enrolling in universities and colleges in larger numbers each year.

Upon receiving the student's aid application, institutional financial aid officers are able to develop an aid "package" tailored to the student's needs and individual circumstances. Another advantage of this procedure is that high school guidance counselors are freed from the enormous task of keeping track of the myriad of financial aid programs and can devote more time to guiding students into the academic environment best suited to the intellectual needs and capacities of their students.

Institutions, too, are recognizing the developing role of the financial aid officer. Each year more and more colleges and universities, even the smaller ones, are establishing aid offices.

While much is being accomplished in the area of student financial aids in meeting the primary objective of removing the financial barrier to college, a great deal of work remains. For example, there are two large classes of prospective students where our financial aid structure is sorely inadequate.

The first is the adult who has been away from school for some years and now recognizes the need and has the desire for further education. Since most of our existing programs are directed toward the younger student, they are unable to meet the financial requirements of the older students with a wider range of financial responsibilities.

CAN DEVELOP SKILLS

By providing assistance for further education, these adults can receive the education which will enable them to become more productive members of society through job retraining and development of new skills and knowledge.

Existing financial aid programs fail to recognize fully the needs of many potential students from our centers of urban and rural poverty. Oftentimes, it is the case that these prospective students have immediate family financial responsibilities way beyond their years which prevent them from seeking further education. Failure to adequately provide for the education of these youngsters often means a life of unemployment and welfare because they lack the skills to obtain a good job.

Programs of student financial assistance will have to be developed which take into account, realistically, the financial needs of these two large groups of prospective students.

Strictly Personal

Home Is Built Around Child, Not Furniture

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Why don't some of those family- and home-and-furnishings magazines come out and tell the truth — namely, that those cool and elegant interiors are designed for families without small children?

Harris

While there are children under five in the house, every husband and wife faces an inescapable choice either the home will look lovely and immaculate, like the four-color double-spread ads, or else the children will grow up free and happy.

You can't have both, which those purring articles neglect to mention. If you choose the latter (as you should), there will be sucker stains on the couches, pencil marks on the walls, puddles on the floors, sand in the corners, and a general air of rollicking chaos pervading the entire house.

It is monstrously unfair to delude newly married couples with sleek portraits of "gracious living," when in point of fact there is no gracious living around young children — there is only gracefully accepting the mess they make, coping with it good-humoredly, and clinging to the faith that it is preferable to have a real child than a "fabulous" home.

The Bible reminds us that "Man was made for Sabbath, but Sabbath for the man," and as a corollary we should remember that a home is made for children, not children for a home.

There is entirely too much chatter in these journals about "charm" and "conversation pieces" and similar superficial nonsense, which can be indulged in only after the children have begun to attend school — and perhaps not even then.

This not to say that all standards of neatness and propriety must go by the boards, or that children should be allowed to wreak havoc in the house. Liberty is not the same as anarchy.

But it is to say that the less a child is forbidden to do around a house, the more easily is he transformed into a happy and obedient child.

If the furnishings take precedence over the fun, the child will seek its revenge in subtle or sullen ways, and cannot be bribed into "goodness" as he grows older.

What goes on in the interior of a child is infinitely more important than what comes off in the interior of a home. Only children are designed to last a lifetime; furniture is not.

'Consumerism' Is Used to Fight V-C

Experiment in Pacification Gaining Ground in Delta Region

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

BA TRI, South Vietnam — The dusty, rutted lane runs straight ahead, through a small village of a dozen hamlets, and the driver curses softly as he weaves and twists the jeep to avoid both the and an occasional soldier-advisor of the U.S. Army.

They are here, along with eight Revolutionary Development teams in their black pajamas, in a major pacification experiment in the Delta.

Before the pacifiers moved in with their plans for new schools, a small lying-in hospital for expectant mothers, fertilizers for the paddies, and other goodies from the central government in Saigon, this village was tightly under the economic control of the Viet Cong. That was last January. Today the flow of rice is toward the government-controlled district town of Ben Tri and there is an increasing flow of manufactured goods — including the noisy motor bikes, a sure indicator of relative prosperity — from Ben Tri into the newly-pacified area here.

V-C Control

Ba Tri was under solid V-C control even though only 10 percent of its families were part of the Communist organization or had sons and relatives fighting with the V-C guerrillas.

In a way, what is happening today in Ba Tri is the culmination of all the stops and starts of the pacification program over the years, with the best of the experiments that worked, brought together here, and the others dropped. The government is trying to make itself felt here, trying to give the rice farmers a better economic base (the price of rice in the paddy has doubled in the past year) and so far the results have been good.

Moreover, Ba Tri was an experiment in leap-frog pacification. It is 20 miles southeast of the district capital of Ben Tri and the intervening country is distinctly unfriendly.

"Consumerism"

So far the experiment has shown that (as the pacifiers are now saying: "consumerism is more attractive than communism." The newly-pacified hamlets out here have added 14,000 people to the Ba Tri economic region. Further, the success of "consumerism" has brought heavy pressure from families with Viet Cong connections to bring their sons and brothers back home. Of 152 Communist defectors in the past six months, 114 say that family pressure was responsible.

All this, however, has been accomplished only with the help of very strong military protection, including the two regular army battalions. The hard question is whether the hamlets of Ba Tri which are now all but pacified will stay that way after the security forces are removed (leaving only locally-recruited soldiers) and the Viet Cong

Teen-Age Girl Saves Child As 3 Drown

SOUTH BAY, Fla. (AP) — A teen-aged girl plunged into the waters of a 25-foot deep canal Sunday and rescued a 3-year-old girl from a sinking car that carried the child's mother and grandparents to their deaths.

The rescuer, Paula Scoggins, 14 of Miami, said a woman handed the baby out of the window of the car and cried, "Save her! We can't swim!" as the car sank to the bottom of the murky water.

Miss Scoggins swam to the bank, about 15 yards away, handed blonde Laura Ann Schick to her boyfriend and swam back to try and save the other occupants.

"The car was gone," said state Trooper J. L. McLean. The doors were still closed when the car and its three occupants were recovered, McLean said. The rear doors were still locked, he said.

Miss Scoggins, a junior high school student, said she was traveling along the highway when she saw the car suddenly make an effort to come back — as they always do. If the answer to that question is yes, the war here someday will end on our terms. (Copyright, 1967)

Not All Valid

Reasons for Bankruptcy Varied

BY ALICE HUCK

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Reasons for personal bankruptcies fall into about three main categories according to Edward Bollenbeck, Appleton, attorney.

He heads the list with the small wage-earner, with a lot of "little hungry mouths to feed," who has been driven to the bankruptcy court by inflation, and perhaps an ever-increasing number of medical bills.

Second is the big spender. He has the best of everything, but everything has a big mortgage on it — house, colored TV, two or three cars, boat, motor. He's the kind of guy who owes everyone in town, but nobody's sure of it until the bottom falls out of the budget.

And often thrown into bankruptcy is the man or woman who once had big income, has been brought up on "the best," and suddenly comes the realization the capital has been eroded away.

Moral Erosion

Bollenbeck agrees with Dan Boone, credit manager at St. Elizabeth Hospital, the steady increase in bankruptcies also indicates an eroding away of moral character.

He was quick to add that some failures cannot be avoided. Mental illness, alcoholism, sudden deaths, uninsured catastrophes — these can all lead to the bankruptcy court.

One attorney told of a man he really felt sorry for because he owned medical bills of over $1,300 for his wife's illness. He entered into bankruptcy, and then the attorney found out there were many other kinds of bills. Sympathy began to fade, and then collapsed in horror when the man's wife died a week before the petition was filed and the surviving husband said, "Isn't it a shame she didn't die a week earlier so I could have included the funeral expenses."

"For the first time in my life I wanted to throw a client out the window," the attorney said.

Not Lacking Humor

Some routes to the bankruptcy court are humorous. An attorney tells of a man and wife who had a fight one Saturday night because he couldn't dance — "All the other wives are dancing I'm married to a clod, etc. etc. etc."

So . . . the man signed up with a dance studio to learn a few steps, but he didn't realize that the contract was for $1,200 worth of many, many steps, until a few weeks later when he felt he already knew enough to give his wife a few whirls on the floor.

When she was surprised, he told her, but when he told her, the contract was sound (as checked by an attorney) he ended up in bankruptcy, almost out of his home, and with a wife who now decided she was married to a "stupid clod."

Lost Everything

Sort of pathetically funny was the guy who couldn't even wait to get out of the attorney's office to call on the telephone and inform his most persistent creditor. "It's my pleasure to inform you that I've just signed papers to file for bankruptcy."

Another attorney told of a widow who consulted him about going into a small business, using her deceased husband's insurance money. The attorney had advised her to incorporate, so her home, car and personal assets would not be involved if she didn't make a go of the business. The confident woman didn't incorporate, and within six months had lost everything.

Fifth of a Series

Hospitals, doctors, fuel oil companies and department stores take the biggest beating from the unreliable debtor, Bollenbeck said. The reason is that most of these debts are not secured.

Easy credit is boomeranging on many retail merchants. And, as indicated in this series, the situation is getting worse. According to Linn Twinem, chairman of the American Bar Association's committee on consumer bankruptcy, 1967 will show a loss to creditors of about $1½ billion.

Seven Reasons

In a comprehensive article on consumer bankruptcy in a summer's issue of Jewelers' Circular-Keystone, the trade magazine says there are at least seven reasons for the flood of personal bankruptcies:

—Competition in selling merchandise and investing funds that encourage slapdash extension of credit.

—Consumer misuse of credit through ignorance, gullibility, preoccupation with material things.

—Discounted "paper" holders' high-powered collection techniques that often lead to harassment and debtor despair.

—Changing social attitudes remove stigma of bankruptcy and make many creditors indifferent unless they have a fair chance of collecting large sums.

This was apparent at the lack of creditors, or their representatives appearing in the bankruptcy court at the Oshkosh court house.

—Chicanery in planned bankruptcy, especially by organized crime.

—Bad luck from fire, theft, physical or marital trouble.

—Bad laws at federal, state and local levels, largely written before installment buying became a way of life.

Buyers Protected

The magazine insists that the laws protect buyers more than sellers, adding that the unwritten law "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) is supplanted by "caveat vendor" until we have a better Bankruptcy Act. The last major amendment in the federal act of 1898 was in 1938.

It begins to look as if the practical answer lies in the hands of the creditor. If he handles credit properly, the customer is not overloaded, and won't go bankrupt.

An interesting historical footnote is that the idea of bankruptcy goes back at least to the ancient Hebrews. The word itself is derived from the Latin "banca rupta" or broken bench, symbolic of an out-of-business merchant.

Gaslight Era Glows Again at Butte des Morts' Party Saturday

The Gaslight Era that blazed at the turn of the century was vividly recalled at Butte des Morts Golf Club Saturday evening as the club sponsored one of its favorite parties. The event included entertainment brought from the Gaslight Club in Chicago, which presented song and dance from that gay and colorful time.

There Were Snacks All Evening as the Gaslight Party recreated a setting from another time. Above, at the cracker barrel, are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strutz and Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Kampe, Neenah. At right, watching one of the old nickelodeons at work, are Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Timmers. Below, Mrs. Ellie Merkel, Kimberly, delivers tickets to partygoers Mr. and Mrs. John Dyer and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Wiley Jr., Oshkosh.

Party guests donned costume not only typical of Diamond Jim Brady and Lillian Russell, but some of the other periods since. Many of the women went for the '20s look, with dangly beads and fringed skirts. For the men, straw hats, bow ties and handlebar mustaches served to set an 'old timer' image.

Party guests served themselves hors d'oeuvre early in the evening, then dined at a buffet supper, which included, of course, corned beef. Barrels of pretzels, crackers and snacks, as well as gunny sacks of peanuts, provided tidbits for refreshment all evening.

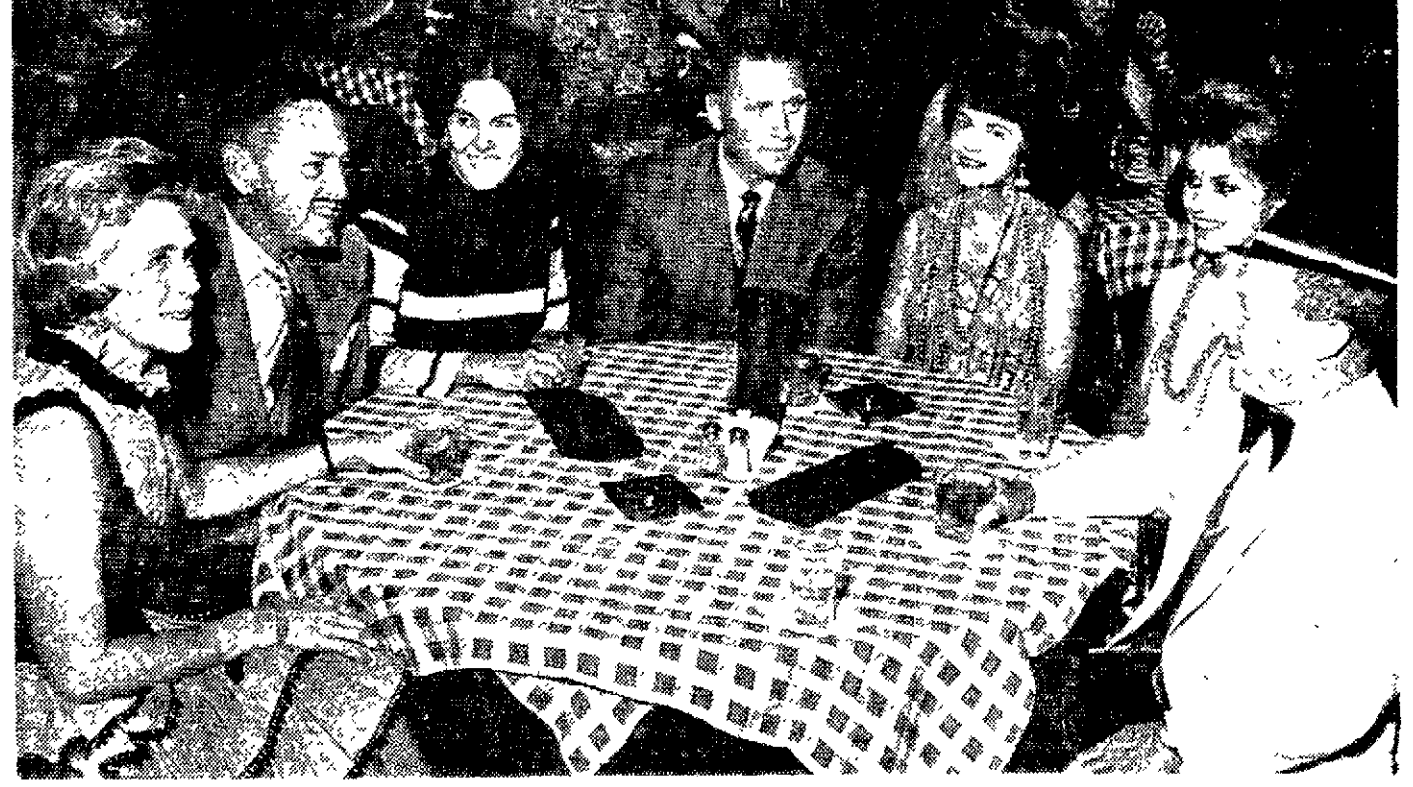

Between shows, player pianos plunked out honky tonk music for those who wanted to dance, or just watch everyone else.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gustman and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Scherzinger were co-chairmen of the party.

Road Show Entertainment sparked a gay mood for members and guests at Butte des Morts Golf Club Saturday evening at their Gaslight Party. The entertainers put on shows at intervals throughout the party. Below, chatting during the evening, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spooner, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bollenbeck, Mrs. Raymond LeVee, Miss Stephanie LeVee, Chicago, and Mr. LeVee. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Fifth BPW Congress Set For Friday in Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Leaders of about 50 national organizations serving employed women will meet to discuss "The Career Woman — Her Total Responsibilities" at the fifth Congress of Career Women Leaders in Washington Friday and Saturday.

Presiding at the session sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs (BPW) at the Statler Hilton Hotel will be Mrs. Mabel McLanahan, Appleton, president of the National Federation. Official delegates to the Congress are national presidents or other elected officers of the organizations.

Friday Address Katherine Peden, Kentucky Commissioner of Commerce, will address the group Friday evening. She is a former president of the National Federation and a recent appointee to new National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

Goals of the national Congress and the local counterpart meetings are to develop a more effective American professional and business life by cooperative understanding of all organizations with common interests; to strive for increased participation in career guidance programs for young people; to continue the development of knowledge that will improve the individual woman's growth and participation in career and community endeavors, and to develop greater understanding of the career woman and her relationship with her colleagues, both men and women.

The congress sets the stage for National Business Women's Week set for Oct. 15 through 21.

Pennies, Not Royal Jewels Financed Columbus' Trip

One of the most enchanting diamond-studded legends in history is the story that Queen Isabella of Spain pawned her jewels to give Christopher Columbus money to make his voyage.

This Tuesday, marking the 475th anniversary of Columbus' arrival in the New World, will cause the revival of the legend again. But, pretty as the story is, it's just not true.

Isabella and her husband, King Ferdinand, dipped into the state coffers and gave Columbus about 100,000 maravedis. He borrowed 500,000 more from a friend. A maravedi was a small copper coin worth about a penny. Thus, the cost of Columbus' voyage was about $1,500.

Jewels Were Security
The story that Isabella pawned her jewels probably arose from the fact that precious jewels, particularly diamonds, have been used for security for loans throughout history. The Spanish jewels were pawned many times for money for other projects. Today a nation's wealth is represented in its gold reserve. But in Isabella's time, and for many centuries after, its wealth was represented in its crown jewels.

Throughout her reign, Isabella's jewels did double duty as ornament and negotiable security. What became of the vast store of wealth she had in gems is not known except for one great jewel. This is her magnificent crown in the Toledo Cathedral which is studded with diamonds of various cuts.

May Have Come to U.S.

One of Isabella's jewels may have come to the United States. In 1883 in America, Baby Doe Tabor, bride of Colorado's Silver King, H.A.W. Tabor, appeared at her wedding wearing a beautiful six and a half carat diamond. She wore the diamond as a pendant in a diamond necklace which was valued at about $90,000. The exciting thing about the pendant gem is that it was called the Isabella Diamond and was said to have belonged to the famous Spanish queen. If this was true, the diamond enjoyed another period of glory at the throat of the beautiful, fabulously wealthy Baby Doe. But when the price of silver fell below production costs in 1893, H.A.W. Tabor became a pauper overnight. And Baby Doe sold her diamonds to get money than — the truth for herself and her husband to live on. The Isabella Diamond then disappeared from public view and its whereabouts are not known today.

Though, when telling of Columbus, historians always make a point of denying the legend of Isabella and her jewels, the story probably will persist. This doubtlessly is because a tale of jewels and a dramatic queenly gesture just makes a better story in this case — the truth

'Save Children' Supported by Gov. Knowles

In honor of the 35th anniversary of the Save the Children Federation, Gov. Warren P. Knowles has designated Oct. 16, as Save the Children Federation Day in Wisconsin.

The Federation aids children, their families, and communities in the southern Appalachian Mountain area, on American Indian reservations, and in many countries overseas. In addition to the sponsorship program, it has a scholarship fund, and annual collections of used clothing for children in Appalachia.

In the past 35 years the group has aided more than 1,250,000 individual children who were victims of chronic poverty, war, or natural disaster.

Meissen Goes on Producing China

BY HUBERT ERB

MEISSEN, Germany (AP)—The name Meissen has meant fine German porcelain since 1710 when the Oriental secret for making it was discovered in nearby Dresden.

Today Meissen means a source of hard currency for the economically hard-pressed East German Communist government, primarily through export to the West.

Production went on through World War II and the plant suffered only slight damage. The forms for making the various Meissen pieces were hidden in the cellar of Meissen's Albrecht castle.

"We have," Herbert Scharnhorst, the plant production director said, "every form for every piece of china produced at Meissen since production started in 1710. There are over three million such forms in three warehouses each four floors high. It is an extraordinary archive."

900 Workers

The plant employs 900 people, some of them fourth and fifth generation Meissen workers. New workers are drawn from all over East Germany and that application is made by individuals who send in plastics or drawings.

"The good ones are given an eight-day trial here and if accepted are sent to our school for from three to five years for further study. Many are academically trained when they come to us."

The top men are the artists and sculptors who create new designs and forms. In all, there are 300 artists who paint everything from butterflies and animals to scenes and figures.

There are specialists in oriental art and medieval history. Each artist gets so many minutes for each job. Where he has room for his individual artistry is in how he paints something. No one, for example, can tell him how to paint a flower."

No Mass Production

The price of the china is high because no mass production machinery is used. "There is no mechanical process used," he said. "The same processes are used now as at the beginning."

Prices, for example, run to $6,500 for a 66-piece, 12-place dinner service, $1,500 for a reproduction of Raphael's Sistine Madonna and up to $2,500 for chandeliers.

The process for making china was discovered under the patronage of August the Strong, king of Saxony and Poland. Clay for the china was found at Meissen, an Elbe river city with current population of about 55,000 located about 30 kilometers from Dresden. The first factory was set up in August's Albrechtsburg castle overlooking the town of Meissen.

"We have enough clay for another 100 years," Scharnhorst smiled. "You can't call our field a mine. It is more like a pharmacy. Two men produce the 800 tons a year that we need." Feldspar for the work comes from Scandinavia.

Hospital White

The plant is an old building where everyone wears white, as in a hospital. There are rooms for the potters, for the artists and electrical ovens that bake and glaze the china and burn in colors at temperatures of 800 to 1400 degrees centigrade.

Meissen has what is called first and second choice products, the second choice items have little marks across the swords, denoting a slight flaw in painting or form.

A Western buyer must pay in western currency. But the selection is much bigger, for example, in West Berlin.

The apparent reason for this is that the government prefers to sell its products for much sought Western money.

Many East Germans stop by at the Meissen plant, wanting to buy. The showroom manager says the problem is simply one of too little supply for the domestic demand.

A private dealer in Halle said that he gets Meissen to sell only when it is second choice, which is priced lower — or when an export shipment for some reason is returned and then put on the East German market.

Arthur A. Thrall will be the third lecturer in the series offered this season by the Women of All Saints Episcopal Church. His topic, at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Parish Center, will be "Itaglio Printing". Mr. Thrall will illustrate his subject with slides. During the last academic year the speaker was on leave from Lawrence University, where he is associate professor of art, and was a visiting professor at the University of Wisconsin. The speaker has prints in permanent collections at the UW, Philadelphia Museum of Art, Art Institute of Chicago and the Smithsonian Institution.

Lynda Tells How She Told Her Big News

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lynda Mrs. Johnson sat up and asked, "Who is it?" President Johnson also awoke and the par- Lynda has worked for the magazine for several months. In news conferences on her engagement and pending wedding she has refused to discuss how she broke the news to her parents. The wedding is scheduled to take place in the White House Dec. 9.

Lynda, writing in McCall's magazine, said that after she and Robb, a White House social aide, discussed their future for several hours in the third-floor solarium of the White House, she went to her mother's bedroom sometime after 3 a.m. to tell her the news of the engagement.

Finding the bed empty, Lynda went to the President's bedroom. She recalled that when she and her sister, Luci, had childhood illnesses, they used to crawl on their hands and knees into their parents' bedroom and touch their mother's hand so she could take care of them without waking their father.

Same Way

Lynda decided to use this approach and reports she made her way "inch by inch" to touch her mother's hand.

Danish Princess Expecting Child Next Spring

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Princess Margrethe, 27-year-old heir to the Danish throne, is expecting her first baby in seven months time, the royal court announced today.

The announcement conveyed the news in the traditional Danish way, saying the princess "is expecting a happy event in May 1968."

Married in June

Margrethe was married last June 10 to French-born Count Henri de Monpezat, now Prince Henrik of Denmark. They have just returned from a visit to Expo 67—their first official assignment abroad on behalf of the Danish people.

The coming birth will make King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid grandparents for the third time. Their two present grandchildren are Princess Alexia of Greece, born July 10, 1965, and Prince Paul of Greece, born May 20, 1967—children of Queen Anne-Marie and King Constantine.

phasis on vocabulary and phrases, will begin Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Appleton YMCA. The one-hour weekly course is designed for quick and practical conversation and is open to men and women and high school students.

Mrs. Grethe Barter is instructor. Registration may be made at the main desk of the Y.

Your Problems

Thrifty Friend Is a Bit Kooky, But Quite Harmless, Ann Says

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a friend who has a beautiful home, a fine husband and lovely children. She is bright and interesting and fun to be with, but my husband says she is a nut. Please give me your opinion.

Thelma will go 15 miles out of her way to save two cents on a can of beans or six cents on a sack of flour. She clips ads, compares prices all over town and knows the stock better than the sales people. Thelma will spend hours trying on clothes she has no intention of buying just so she will know what is available "when the time comes." Once she heard of a millinery sale and got down to the store at 7 a.m. to make certain she was the first one in the store when the doors opened.

Yesterday, Thelma met me for lunch wearing a dress that I wouldn't put on the end of a mopstick. She said she was going "bargain-hunting" and wanted to look "down and out." I was shocked at her appearance. Is she crazy as my husband says? — Bemused

Dear Be: Let's just say she is peculiar, but then most people are a little kooky in one way or another and Thelma's kookiness is quite harmless.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met this boy, Brad, at the Cape in July. He seemed very nice.

Landers

though somewhat shy. We are both 17 and enjoy the same kind of music and poetry and we are in agreement on world issues.

Although I spent a lot of time with Brad, he never tried to go beyond hand holding. When we said good-bye, he didn't even kiss me. We shook hands and that was that. I was deeply disappointed.

I have been home from the Cape for 14 days now and have received 10 letters from Brad. His letters scare me because they are full of love talk and do not sound like him at all. He says he is in love with me and that one day we will be married. I tear up his letters because if anyone found them they would think I had a red-hot summer which is not true.

I don't want to hurt Brad's feelings, but I'd just as soon he didn't write me love letters and I don't want to hear from him so often. Please explain if you can why he has changed so much. Is he a little balm? Can I help him? — Perplexed

Dear Per: Brad has taken up part-time residency in a world of fantasy where he does much better than in the real world. He may be more than "a little" balm.

If you see him again and he behaves as he did at the Cape, cool the friendship. A 17-year-old girl shouldn't take it upon herself to be a psychiatric social worker. In the meantime, write Brad and tell him his letters make you uncomfortable and to make them less personal and less frequent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please settle a heated argument.

When a lady is having a cup of coffee in a restaurant and she runs into a gentleman who used to work in the same office and he asks her if he can sit down and have a cup of coffee with her, should she say yes or should she get up and leave?

My husband thinks she should get up and leave. — P. B.

Dear P. B.: If there is nothing more to the story than you have related, such as some old gossip about you and the gentleman, I say there is nothing wrong with having a cup of coffee with an old friend.

Want to say "no" to drinking ope with your request without your buddies putting you down? Get cued in. Write for help you with your problems. "Booze and You — For Teen-Send them to her in care of this Agers Only." by Ann Landers, newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Ageless Beauty Feminine Birthright

How grandmothers have woman's cosmetic choice should changed? Less than a century in many ways correspond with ago a woman was considered the make-up that the fresh middle-aged at thirty. Today, young teenager needs — natural "line begins at forty" and with all the wonderful medical developments and scientific cosmetic discoveries, it is possible for a mature woman to be astonishingly attractive all her life!

Presenting a youthful appearance is a matter of figure, facial care and make-up. Most mature women fight a constant battle with the bulge due to over eating and lack of exercise. At 40, a woman needs approximately half of the calories required in her teens. It takes sheer will power to cut down on one's intake of food, yet this is the only way to lose unwanted inches.

Review Make-Up

Cosmetically, the mature woman should review every aspect of her make-up and select cosmetics from the lighter and softer color ranges. In fact, a

Prevent Wrinkles

Most important beauty aid for the not-so-young skin is a moist beauty oil which should always be smoothed on as an invisible make-up base before applying tinted make-up. It is a shortage of moisture, just as much as oil, that causes the skin to lose its smoothness. The ever-present threat of dryness which leads to the inevitable wrinkles can be avoided. Preventive care cannot be over-emphasized, for wrinkles are far easier to prevent than to cure.

Soft Colors

A soft brush-on blusher will give a hint of color to the cheeks. Apply it while smiling in the mirror. Because eyes need definition, use a soft lilac or pale gray eye shadow. Charcoal eyebrow pencil is necessary if the hair has been allowed to go grey or silver and lashes should be darkened with a little mascara. Choose a lipstick in a soft rose shade.

Make-up errors to avoid: Applying rouge in spherical patches; powdering so that a flour bin appearance results or failing to remove excess powder so that it rests in and shows up facial wrinkles; using black mascara and black eyebrow pencil; dark lipstick.

About the House

Wire hangers are often too flimsy to make good suit or dress hangers. To remedy this situation, tape three of them together to get one good, sturdy hanger.

Sheinwold Simplest Plan Often Is the Best

Bridge players have devious minds. If you want to get to the next town they'll guide you there by way of China — and then claim credit for good imagination.

West opened the queen of diamonds, declarer covered with dummy's king and East won with the ace. East then upset South by returning the ace of trumps and a low trump.

If South led back a diamond the opponent with the last missing trump would win and return that trump to make sure dummy would never get a ruffing trick. Now South's only chance for the contract depended on good breaks in both black suits.

South took East's trump return, led a club to dummy, ruffed a club, got to dummy with a spade to ruff another club and got to dummy with a second spade to ruff dummy's last club.

West saw the plot and discarded a spade on the fourth round of clubs. Now when South led a third spade West ruffed and cashed a diamond to defeat the contract.

It was a very good operation. South claimed, even though the patient died if nobody had ruffed. South would have reached dummy with the third spade to draw the last trump.

There was a much simpler way to make the contract: South should play the low diamond from dummy at the first trick. If West found the trump switch at the second trick (much harder for West than for East), South could win the second trump and lead a diamond. If the opponent with the ace of diamonds could not return a trump, South would make his contract by ruffing a diamond in dummy. The odds would have been in South's favor instead of very much against him.

Art Class to Be Offered at Y

Miss Phyllis Davidson, Appleton artist, will be the instructor of an eight-week art course beginning Oct. 16 and 19 at the Appleton YMCA. Classes will be held Mondays from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. and Thursdays from 1 to 3 p.m. Sitter service will be available for the afternoon class. The class is open to men and women and high school students. Instruction will be in basic drawing and oil painting. Registration may be made at the Y main desk.

Inspires the Chef

Roll out tag ends of pastry and cut into small squares. Spread with anchovy paste and flip over in turnover fashion, sealing the ends with the tines of a fork. Bake and serve with before-dinner drinks or as an accompaniment to a vegetable salad.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Trim Jaw

A Lovely asks: What can be done for a chin that was always too square and prominent, and now has developed a swag of flesh? I look like an elderly lion.

The Answer: The problem probably appears worse than it is. Added to a strong chin, a little lax flesh looks like a lot. It can be dislodged. Here's how:

1. Exercise for two minutes, night and morning, to tighten the chin muscles. Just place fingertips well out on cheek bones, gently draw skin upward and, at the same time, drop jaw: hold position for five counts, relax and repeat.
2. Because excess pounds and excess chins are inseparable, check your weight. Reduce, if that course is indicated. Beware, though, of any fast method. A quick drop in weight accentuates "swag" before exercise can tighten it.
3. Give the chin area specialized skin care. Sculpt the jawline with throat cream or oil before retiring. Before dressing mornings, apply greaseless, moisturized all-day throat cream.

4. While awaiting improvement, camouflage the trouble: wing pink blusher upward from the center of cheek bones... Apply contour shadow to jaw-bones... Apply lipstick in long, slow curves... Wear the hair bones, gently draw skin upward high over forehead, slick at and, at the same time, drop temples and fullish behind ears.

Juvenile Center Given State Okay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A $230,000 boost in the cost of the planned juvenile delinquent training center at Merrill won approval from the State Building Commission Monday as the agency filled requests calling for $5,074,000 in construction and land purchases for state facilities.

The project in Lincoln County will cost the state $6,768,500, the commission was told by the Wisconsin Department of Health and Social Service, as it requested the allocation of an additional $230,000 to update an earlier cost estimate made in April, 1966.

The new facility, which will house 287 delinquent youths, drawn mainly from the northern area of the state, will bring the state's training and correctional program for delinquent males to a rated capacity of 968.

Working Plans
Also approved by the commission was the release of $226,000 for the preparation of final development work. Construction is slated to begin in the spring of 1968.

The commission approved requests from state agencies totaling $4,887,000 for construction of new facilities and remodeling of existing structures throughout the state.

Total purchases and land transfers of almost $186,000 were also approved.

The Health and Social Services department also won authority to increase the size of a private enterprise in building previously a private patient building at Central State Hospital by McPhee.

Cheese Plant Worker Found Guilty of Theft

CHILTON — Wayne Bouchard, 28, route 2, Hilbert, was found guilty of theft when he appeared Monday before Calumet County Judge D. H. Sebor.

Bouchard's court appointed attorney Thomas Lucas had entered a no contest plea on behalf of his client.

The court ordered a presentence investigation with sentencing set for 2 p.m. Oct. 23.

Bouchard was arrested Sept. 19 for stealing cheese from Thiel Milk Products, route 2, Hilbert, over a period of several months. He was a former employee of the firm.

Sherwood Petitions to Incorporate

SHERWOOD — Petition for the incorporation of Sherwood as a village has been circulated during the past week by a citizen advisory committee appointed at a public meeting here in February. The area is now part of the Town of Harrison.

Wednesday is the deadline for obtaining 50 signatures of resident property owners from the area to be incorporated. It would then be filed with the Calumet County Circuit Court.

More than 70 signatures had been obtained by Monday. After receiving approval from county and state officials, a referendum election will be held.

Appleton Man Awaits Trial on Obscene Charge

Larry A. Steidl, 25, 831 E. John St., who is awaiting trial on four counts of possessing obscene written matter, was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday on a disorderly conduct charge brought in connection with an obscene note he allegedly wrote.

Although Steidl did not enter a plea Monday, Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Nov. 20 and ordered $750 bond. Steidl was jailed in lieu of posting bond. The Appleton man said he would contact an attorney.

Outagamie County authorities brought the charge after a jail inmate found obscene notes in a cell. The prisoner reportedly turned the notes over to authorities. Steidl was released from jail recently after serving a three-months term for non-support.

Kobussen was alone at the time. Firemen found no fire, but advised the owner to call a repair man.

'Barefoot in Park' Opens Sunset Season

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Sunset Playhouse in suburban Elm Grove opened its remodeled theater last week with "Barefoot in the Park," a comedy of newlyweds with surefire laughs and a plot that makes very little intellectual demand.

A reviewer at the proceedings, staged for its workers alone, added, "It's fun."

The account of life in a 60 floor apartment in New York runs through Oct. 22.

Area Music Teachers Eligible for Extension String Workshops

Elementary and high school music teachers are eligible to participate in a series of string workshops at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

The "best of both worlds" Gin.

British tradition and American skill make White Satin the best gin you can buy.

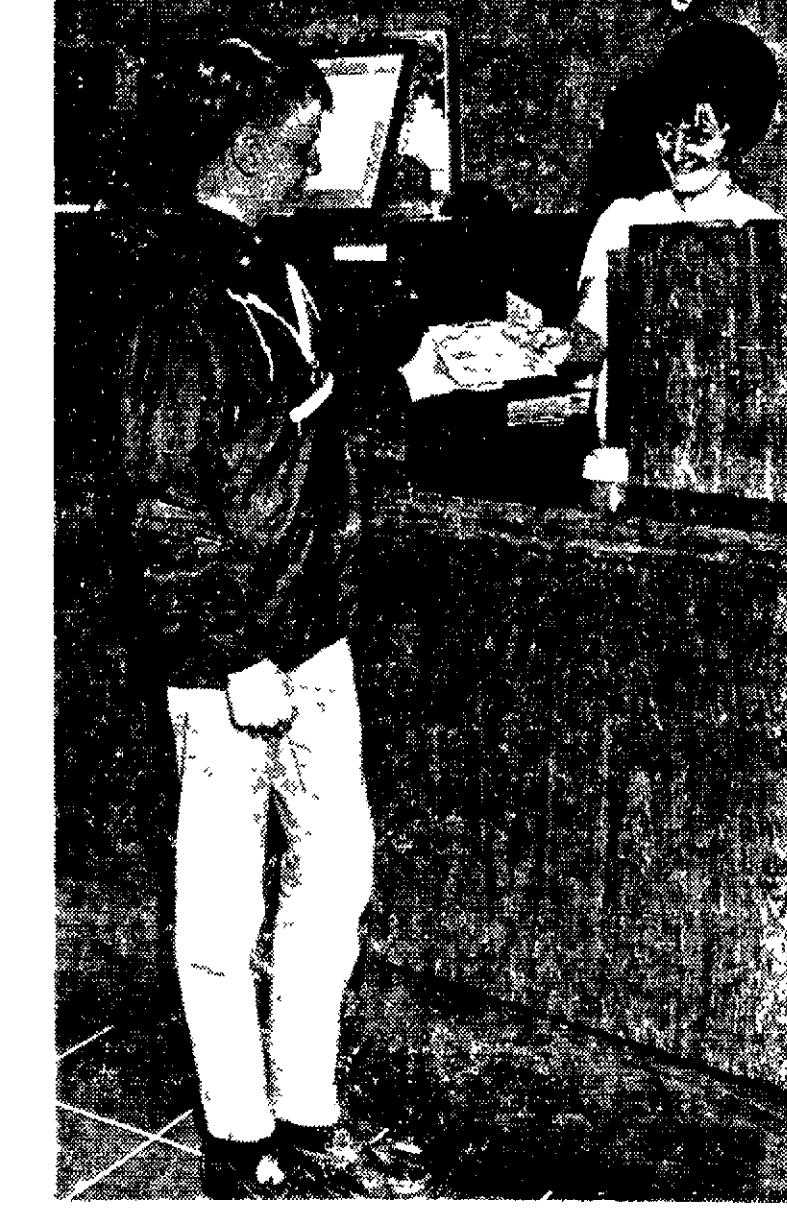

You can't beat the British when it comes to formulating a gin. So we didn't try. Instead, we took the secret of Sir Robert Burnett's White Satin, a gin that's been a favorite in London for almost two hundred years.

And then, because you can't beat the Americans at quality production, we produced it here. With the aid of the best equipment and greatest technical knowledge in existence.

By taking the best qualities of each, we came up with a gin that's better than either. Which is kind of like having your cake and eating it too.

Information in Error for Dupuytren Contracture

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have Dupuytren's contracture and have been told the only relief I could get would be by amputation of my pinky and ring fingers on both hands, and part of the palms. Please write about this. — T. C.

Your informers are wrong regarding amputation.

Dupuytren's contracture results from a thickening and tightening of the sheaths through which run certain tendons leading to the fingers.

This causes a firm, cord-like ridge to appear in the palm of the hand, and if the thickening process continues, the tendon no longer can extend to its full length. This, in turn, means that the finger or fingers involved cannot be straightened, but remain bent.

The little and ring fingers are the ones usually involved.

The cause of this contracture is not clear, but injury does not appear to be a significant factor since the trouble can develop in people whose hands are not subjected to strain or trauma. It appears more often in men than women, usually after the age of 40. Rarely is there any pain.

There may be a hereditary factor. It also has been noted that the condition occurs quite frequently in patients who have diabetes or gout — I have seen it frequently in diabetics.

Treatment should begin when

kinking of a finger is noted. This treatment consists essentially of measures to stretch the finger to overcome the contraction. This is effective only when used early.

In cases of long standing, surgery is necessary. This involves loosening the tendon sheath — NOT amputation. In some instances large doses of Vitamin E have been tried, but the results are doubtful.

Dear Dr. Molner: My father, who lives abroad, is afflicted with a disease called herpes zoster. He was told it is a new disease. He has had terrible pains of the chest and then blisters like from boiling water come out on his skin. I am worried about him. Can you give me any explanation for this disease? — A. K.

It is not a new disease, but it is a very aggravating one. It is not a fatal ailment but there is little to do except to keep the pain under control until the infection subsides. The common name for herpes zoster is shingles, and you will find the explanation of its cause, as well as information on what can or cannot be done for it, in my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles." Send 10 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy.

Dear Dr. Molner: People keep telling me water conditioning is bad for the health, exposing you to everything from cancer to kidney stones. I question such logic. I have a water softener and find it to my liking, both for drinking and washing. — Mrs. W. K.

There is no truth to these scare stories. Some people prefer to drink unsoftened water but that is a matter of choice.

The one important thing to keep in mind is this: If a person is on a low-salt diet (meaning low sodium) he usually should avoid drinking softened water. That is because so often the "softening" is a matter of substituting sodium for the minerals, such as calcium, which make the water "hard." For anyone else, it doesn't matter.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband says milk in coffee increases the caffeine. I say no. Who is right? — P. G.

It doesn't increase the caffeine. It does, obviously, increase the calories.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write for my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Unruly Youths Riot in Park in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A thousand youths erupted in violence Sunday night at Playland Amusement Park at the beach and police sealed off six blocks for two hours before they stopped the bottle-throwing crowd.

Police arrested four adults and 12 juveniles for assault and resisting arrest, then herded the unruly youths into municipal buses and sent them back into the city. At least twice boys got off the buses and started all over again, but these local disturbances were quickly quelled.

Trouble started when two Negro men got into a fight and a motorcycle policeman tried to break it up. He was quickly surrounded by a racially mixed throng, groups of which began breaking concession stand winning cash registers. Police estimated $2,700 worth of windows were broken and $1,600 stolen.

Aesthetics Help Make Substation Good Neighbor in Residential Area

"Substations can be good neighbors," is the title of an article by Appleton City Planner Walter Rasmussen which will appear in the October issue of American City Magazine.

Mrs. Norma E. Stapel of Appleton, likes her next-door neighbor.

"There never are wild parties next door. And it's the best landscaped place on the street," Mrs. Stapel says.

Her next-door neighbor is an electric substation of Wisconsin Michigan Power Company.

The power company and the planning body in Appleton generally try to locate electric substations in areas zoned for commercial or industrial use. But the laws of physics sometimes dictate that electric facilities must be placed in residential neighborhoods.

Fence Removed

In 1966, the growth of the residential area served from the fence was eliminated because it Meade Street substation made was no longer necessary. A double redwood fence, bench and sign security fence was removed.

The high steel lattice work that held overhead wires out of the way was dismantled. The overhead wires were taken down.

The power company designers look advantage of new technology to improve appearance when they designed the new substation for greater load capacity.

The wires entering and leaving the substation were placed underground eliminating the need for the steel superstructure thereby lowering the station's silhouette. Switchgear enclosed in metal cabinets are used instead of the usually exposed switches.

Color Scheme

An architect was consulted to select a color scheme, and the metal buildings housing switchgear and circuit breakers were painted two tones of yellow gold. Cast-in-place masonry panels with exposed aggregate join the two metal enclosures and shield the transformer from view.

The traditional chain-link fence was eliminated because it was no longer necessary. A double redwood fence, bench and sign were added. Landscaping and decorative lighting completed the aesthetic treatment.

The special aesthetic treatment cost Wisconsin Michigan Power Company $10,000 extra.

However, a flood of compliments convinced the utility's management that the attractive design was worth the additional investment.

Another Planned

A similar station is scheduled in another Appleton residential area. Sites in commercial and industrial areas can not justify as much additional cost, though landscaping and decorative fences are standard practices at all Wisconsin Michigan substations.

By designing attractive substations that blend with their neighborhood surroundings, Wisconsin Michigan Power Company has made the Appleton Plan Commission's job easier.

The new designs have quieted citizens' objections to substations as neighbors. For residents know that a substation built by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. will be an attractive, quiet, well-mannered neighbor.

"They didn't louse it up."

"Buick started off with a classic design and they stayed with it—for good reason. The simple sculptured look was unique at the time and it still is. I'm glad they didn't louse it up by changing it!"

Joe Meyer, Stockbroker.

"You can buy a medium-priced car with all the optional extras and suddenly you're paying a price that's almost as much as the Buick Riviera. I was pleased to find Riviera's tilt wheel, power steering and power brakes are standard equipment!"

"I think Riviera is a very attractive investment. It should certainly be on anybody's recommended buy list!"
Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Soviet Living Standard Still Far Behind U.S.

BY SYLVIA PORTER
If you were Ivan and Anna living in Moscow today, it would cost you $34.60 to buy a foodbasket containing one week's supply of staple foodstuffs for yourself and your two teenage children. You would have to work 59.2 hours to earn the $34.60.

If you were John and Mary

living in New York City, it would cost you $18.27 to buy the same foodbasket. You would have to work a scant 7.3 hours to earn the money.

Nov. 7, 1967 — the 50th anniversary of the Russian Revolution — is coming up. Massive preparations are underway throughout the U.S.S.R. to celebrate the achievements of a half-century. Sparkling boasts are being made not only about the Soviet Union's strides in space and science but also about her progress in production of consumer goods and services. Sample comment of long-time Soviet leader Anastas I. Mikoyan to a New York Times correspondent: "We were one of the most backward of nations and now we are one of the most advanced."

Understandable Pride
The pride is surely understandable: it is a 50th anniversary and the Russians are even recovering from Stalin now.

Output of consumer goods and services is climbing rapidly and steadily. For the first time since before the revolution, ample supplies of meat and dairy products are reported available in Soviet cities and there is actually a shortage of butter. To deny the progress is to deny reality.

Nevertheless, by the universal yardstick of living standards, the Soviet Union has made only limited headway.

To show the comparisons, Keith Bush, senior research specialist for Radio Liberty in Munich, has put together figures on costs of key foods, goods and services in Moscow and New York. (Radio Liberty, which is supported by private U.S. citizens, is the most powerful voice of democracy heard in the U.S.S.R.) To make the dollar figures truly comparable, Bush has translated them into terms of minutes of worktime. Here are retail prices — in worktime terms — of key goods and services.

Of course, some items are cheaper in Moscow. The chief one is rent. Because of subsidies, the Soviet citizen has to work only 20 minutes a week to pay the monthly rent on one square-meter of floor space. The U.S. citizen has to work 36.

What's more, a comparison with a 1964 study by Bush reveals the U.S.S.R. worker is crawling up the living standard ladder. The foodbasket he earns with 59.2 hours of work now look him 64.9 hours three years ago.

But the Soviet Union is still far from being "one of the most advanced" nations, as Mikoyan claims. By the living standard yardstick, Russia isn't even in the same league as America.

Glamor Stock Profit Taking Not in Evidence

Wall Streeters Had Predicted Blue Chips' Return

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A large percentage of Wall Street's savants began chanting earlier this year the opinion that the glittering glamor stocks would fade and the blue chips, with their duller but more wholesome patina, return to favor.

The experience hasn't been quite that. Although stock averages are higher now than they were a few months ago, some glamor stocks have continued to soar, and through last week looked as if the sky itself was no limit.

What is surprising even experienced investors is that some of the glamor stocks already were so high that profit-taking seemed inevitable. But they have pushed ever higher, sometimes on heavy volume.

Science-Oriented Stocks
Computer, electronics and other science-oriented stocks have been among the most popular trading vehicles, with International Business Machines, Control Data, Burroughs and Scientific Data, all soaring to record highs. Since all these companies make computers, the buying can be explained in part by examining the vast potential of the industry, now revolutionizing some businesses, creating others and releasing manpower from menial chores to concentrate on more profitable tasks.

The vigorous advances in other areas of the market—along with some sharp declines—might more easily be attributed to in-out trading by some of the highly active "performance" mutual funds.

There is little question that many stocks also have been little more than trading vehicles for some big, venturesome money from questionable sources.

But, after considering all reasons for the advance by glamor stocks, the most plausible and now the most popular explanation remains an old one—that

Not Proven
The truth of this belief has never been proved conclusively. Last year, for example, the economy overheated but the stock market's only steam resulted from hot air being let out of inflated prices.
On the other hand, one of the sharpest and most prolonged rises in stock market averages occurred during the first half of the 1960s, at a time when prices were stable and inflation notably absent.
Nevertheless, there is little question that in today's market many traders believe some of the high flyers, especially those which capitalize on scientific innovation are vehicles for big capital gains.

For some blue chips the story might be slightly different. A short period of inflation might be acceptable to some industries, as records show, but higher labor and material prices inevitably take their toll.
Static Period
The market, therefore, is in a questionable period. Gains and losses almost match some days. On others the market averages remain neutral despite tremendous advances by individual stocks. This has created a feeling among some on Wall Street that a renewed speculative binge could occur, with the public jumping into the market in force. When this happens, it is the signal for some pros to leap out.

Odd lot trading, or trading in units of less than 100 shares, is now being watched closely by some market technicians. An increase would mean the return of the small investor.
So far, as with so many indicators, this one, too, is neutral. The small investor has been a seller most of this year. However, last week the margin of sales over purchases shrank. It could be significant.

'68 Caprice Coupe; rear, Camaro Sport Coupe, "The Hugger"

Dramatically new! Astro Ventilation makes the ride as quiet as it is smooth.

Astro Ventilation: It wafts outside air freely through the car, even with all windows closed tight. So you get ample air without annoying drafts. And street noises stay where they belong—in the street. Astro Ventilation is standard on Camaro, Corvette and Caprice Coupe, also available on many other models.

New riding silence
We've gone all out to give you more peace and quiet. Computers showed exactly where to locate engine and body mounts to isolate vibrations. All models have improved shock absorbers and quieter exhaust systems, while many have wider wheel stance for greater smoothness. The '68 Chevrolets are the best riding cars we've ever built.

Better performance
There are new and bigger standard engines, both V8 and Six. Also a new 250-hp V8 you can order that runs on regular fuel. There's a new rear axle ratio you can add if you're interested in extra economy. Most models with automatic transmission now come with a special heater that warms the carburetor air for more efficient performance in cold weather. Of course, every 1968 Chevrolet has the new GM exhaust emission control.

Many new safety features
Along with such safety features as the proved GM-developed energy absorbing steering column, folding front seat back latches and dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, you get many new ones for 1968. Among them: energy absorbing front seat backs, side marker lights, safety armrests that shield the door handles and more—even a buzzer to tell you if you've forgotten the ignition key when you leave the car.

Caprice offers new luxury, Camaro even sportier
Caprice for '68 is more than ever "The Grand Chevrolet." There's an elegant new formal roof line on the coupe above, a sweeping new hood line that conceals windshield wipers, new styling everywhere. There are stunning new interiors that combine luxury fabrics, soft vinyls, wood-grained trim and gleaming accents for a truly sumptuous look. Camaro interiors, too, have received special attention for '68. Instruments are professionally clustered for convenience. Supple vinyl trim climbs right up from deep-twist carpeting to window glass. "The Hugger" looks, rides and accelerates even smoother this year.

Illinois Goose Hunters Protest Shipping Rules

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — The new federal regulation which prohibits shipping of geese has come under attack in Alexander and Union counties, scene of the state's best goose hunting.

Hunting club operators, businessmen and sportsmen in the two counties have started a campaign to have the regulation stricken before the hunting season opens.

According to the regulation, "geese taken in the states of Illinois and Missouri may not be transported, shipped or delivered for transportation or shipment by common carrier, the postal service, or by any person except as the personal baggage of the hunter taking the bird."

The regulation is expected to have an adverse effect in the two counties, where goose hunting is largely commercial- ized and part of the economy.

Bobcats Deal Away Yewman

Green Bay's Top Scorer Traded for Marquette Duo

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Bobcats have dealt away their top United States Hockey League scorer, Gordy Yewman, along with rights to Jerry Sullivan in exchange for the Marquette Iron Rangers' Lackey Brothers, Carl and Jerry.

General Manager John Mayasich, in announcing the transaction today, said that Carl Lackey is "one of the best defensemen in the league" and that Jerry "has all the natural ability and potential to be one of the best forwards in the league."

Bobcat Coach Peter Buchmann went even further than Mayasich, describing Carl as "one of the three best defensemen in our league. He's very solid and a good rusher. He starts plays well and this is something we've needed."

At 6-feet 2-inches and 195 pounds, Jerry is "strong and a good puck handler," according to Buchmann, who indicated he was very pleased with the trade.

5-Year Veteran Yewman played wive years with the Bobcats and last year had collected 34 points in league play on 22 goals and 12 assists. Sullivan had quit the Bobcats in mid-season a year ago.

A teacher in the Green Bay school system, Carl is a graduate of Michigan State University, where he was captain, most valuable player and an All-American in 1960. He had one year of experience with Toledo in the International League and has been with Marquette the past two seasons. He scored 14 points for the Rangers last year.

Jerry, at 22, three years younger than his brother, spent one year at Northern Michigan University. He is now employed in Green Bay. He spent the last two seasons playing on a part time basis with the Iron Rangers.

Saints' McCormick Out for the Season

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Offensive tackle Dave McCormick underwent surgery Monday to repair a severed knee ligament and will be lost to the New Orleans Saints for the remainder of the National Football League season.

The 6-foot-6, 250-pound McCormick, was obtained by the Saints from the San Francisco 49ers just before the season began.

Andrews Finds Parallel With Last 2 Games of Regular Season

Bosox Insist Pressure Is on Cardinals

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Hughes is going to keep his pitches "high and tight, low and away" when he starts against the Boston Red Sox Wednesday and Boston Manager Dick Williams is going to keep the St. Louis Cardinals in suspense with a new starting pitcher — Gary Waslewski.

Both managers named the starting pitchers for the sixth game after Jim Lonborg sent the Series back to Boston with a 3-1 victory Monday in St. Louis. It was the second victory in the Series for the 6-foot-5 right-hander.

The Cardinal dressing room was subdued, but not concerned. Julian Javier, who made another spectacular play at second base to match his gem in the second game, summed up the Cardinals' feelings.

Still in Front "We're going to beat them (in Boston)," he predicted. "We still have the hammer and we're still in front." The Cardinals still have a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston left fielder, said, "They're going to know they've been in a fight." And despite the Cardinal lead he said the pressure is now on the Cardinals.

"You can bet they're thinking about the last two games in Fenway Park," Yaz commented. "Yeah, we're going back to that Green Monster — The left field wall."

And Boston second baseman Mike Andrews found a parallel between the Series and Boston's fairytale finish in the American League. Boston beat the favored Minnesota Twins in the last two games of the regular season to win the pennant.

Same Situation "It's the same situation as against Minnesota, when we had — over 28 points per game."

quarterback Lee Weyenberg's performance, saying, "he mixes his plays well." Weyenberg hit on seven of 11 passes for 110 yards.

The Chuters' coach also singled out Gary Van De Hey for his job of containing Xavier's speed merchant Brad "Bubsie" Graff, among a host of others, including Joe Riba, Todd Austin, Dan Weyenberg, Guy Peeters, Leon Biesterbelt and Vic De Bruin of the defensive unit.

Xavier's Graff was somewhat hampered by knee injury sustained the week before against Marinette Central Catholic, according to Clark. He was held to 25 yards in nine carries against Little Chute, his smallest total for the season.

But neither high school strategist will have time to do much reflecting on the last game, since each is faced with another "toughie" this weekend. Xavier (4-1-1) faces Menasha St. Mary (5-1-0) on Friday night at Goodland Field, and St. John goes against Marinette Central Catholic. Both games will have a fairytale finish in the American League. ## Stonebreaker Expects Fine

Rozelle to Get Facts Concerning Sunday Free-for-All

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Stonebreaker of the New Orleans Saints believes he'll have to pay for an act of anger in last Sunday's National Football League game against the New York Giants.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle, however, intends to hear all the evidence before making any judgment against the principals in what ex-NFL star Norm Van Brocklin called "the best fight in Yankee Stadium in years."

Stonebreaker said Monday he expects to be fined and/or reprimanded for throwing a punch at New York Center Greg Larson to trigger a post-game free-for-all involving several players from each club.

The Saints' linebacker became enraged when Larson, standing on the sideline, appeared to smash Tom Hall with an elbow after the New Orleans end caught a pass in the final minute of the game and ran out of bounds in front of the New York bench.

"It was a cheap shot and Larson knew it," Stonebreaker told a New Orleans columnist. "I popped him, and I'd do it again."

"The commissioner was not at the game," an NFL spokesman said Monday night. "He'll be apprised of the situation. If the facts call for action to be taken, it will be taken."

Mets Get Okay To Negotiate With Hodges

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Mets, shopping for a new manager, have received the Washington Senators' permission to negotiate with Gil Hodges, but more than that the principals aren't saying.

Hodges, former Brooklyn Dodger star who managed the Senators to an encouraging tie for sixth place in the American League this season, still has a year left on his Washington contract, but Mets' president Bing Devine is expected to try to lure him back to New York.

Hodges has been prominently mentioned as a likely candidate to replace Wes Westrum, who resigned shortly before the season ended, but so far the Mets have denied they have talked with him.

Now that the Senators have given the go-ahead, Devine will probably make Hodges an offer soon but Hodges was unavailable for comment.

Disappointed Smith Says Falcons 'Blew The College Draft'

By RON SPEER
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons, struggling through their second National Football League season, "blew the college draft and will just have to suck up our guts and take in our belts," disappointed owner Rankin Smith said Monday.

The Falcons, soundly booed by the home fans Sunday when they were whipped for the fourth straight time, 38 - 7 by Philadelphia, haven't got any of the 16 college players they chose in last winter's draft on the squad now.

"There's not a one left," Smith said at a luncheon with newsmen. "Some of them were in the service and didn't get out in time to help us, and some of the others just didn't make it."

"Leo Carroll would be a regular but he got hurt before the season started," Smith said of the Falcons' top draft choice, a defensive end from San Diego State.

"About all we can do is take in our belts, but there is no question I'm disappointed in the size of the scores this fall."

The Falcons lost 38 31 to Baltimore, then were beaten 38-7 by San Francisco, 23 - 0 by Green Bay and 38-7 by Philadelphia in their first home game during which thousands of fans walked out early.

"Very Disappointing"

"I don't think anybody expected us to win against that kind of a schedule, but the decisiveness of the scores has been very disappointing to me," Smith said.

"We've got some greenhorns that we're probably going to use more now," Smith said.

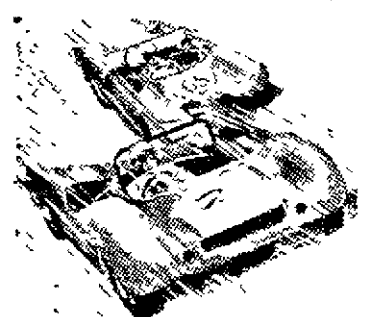

"I'd rather lose with them than with the old guys."

Smith said injuries have also hurt Atlanta's building program with Carroll sidelined in an exhibition game and regular offensive guard Dan Grimm also out for the season with a leg injury. The other veteran guard Ed Cook, was injured against the Eagles and may be gone for the year.

Quarterback Randy Johnson has been hampered by a groin injury "but will play as long as he can stand the pain," Coach Norb Hecker said.

"The players realize its going to take time to build a team," said Hecker, whose Falcons won three NFL games in their debut a year ago.

"We keep making too many mistakes, but I think some of our younger players are going to start helping us," he said, singling out receivers Jerry Simmons and Ray Ogden and running back Perry Lee Dunn.

The mind can come back. The mind can do wonderful things. It really can get you up.

"I think the fact that they beat us two in a row put some doubts in our mind, but this game reaffirms our belief that we can beat them."

Never in Trouble

So far, however, only Lonnberg has been able to beat them. The 24-year-old right-hander never was in trouble Monday, and after the Red Sox picked up a pair of runs in the top of the ninth, even Maris' homer didn't bother him.

The only other hits he allowed were singles by Dal Maxwell in the third and Maris in the fourth.

"I thought when I came into the game I was psychologically ready, and I thought I could beat them," said the Red Sox ace who pitched for the third time in nine days and the fifth time in 16 days.

"I didn't feel any pressure. As soon as I walk across the white line, it's just another game. Then once the game started, I had a lot of confidence that I could get them out because my pitches were working."

Lou Brock was one of the batters against whom his pitches were working. Brock is 8-for-12 against the other Boston pitchers but 0-for-8 against Lonnberg.

"It's my idea that he gets hot because hitters are apt to get that way," Lonnberg said. "I just throw the ball in there and challenge him to hit it."

Brock hasn't and as a result, he hasn't reached base against Boston's ace hurler. The Red Sox have won those two games, but in the three he has been on base, they've lost.

Little More Progress

While Lonnberg was stifling St. Louis again, the Red Sox were making a little more progress than they had in the previous two games—even if two of their runs were unearned.

Singles by Joe Foy and Ken Harrelson sandwiched around Mike Andrews' sacrifice and Mike Shannon's error on the bunt brought Boston its first run in the third inning.

It came off starter Steve Carlton, a 22-year-old lefty who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning after allowing just three hits.

The Red Sox added a clutching pair of runs in the ninth. After they loaded the bases against Ron Willis on a walk to George Scott, Reggie Smith's double and an intentional walk

Officials Also Chided McKay, Prothro Rap ND, Penn State Crowds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Noisy football crowds at Notre Dame and Penn State drew sharp criticism Monday from coaches John McKay of Southern California and Tommy Prothro of UCLA.

McKay declared his quarterback would sharply curtail the practice of changing signals at the line of scrimmage via audibles when the Trojans meet the Irish at South Bend because they couldn't be heard.

At the Southern California Football Writers meeting, Prothro posed the question to McKay regarding the noise level at South Bend.

"Officials say they will quiet the crowd down, but they don't quiet them and have no intention of quieting them," McKay said in answer.

to Rico Petrocelli, Elston Howard blooped a single off Jack Lamabe into right field.

Scott raced home and Smith followed when Maris' throw to the plate was wild.

When Maris countered with his homer in the bottom of the inning, it was too little.

"Even when we got those two runs I was pitching as if I still had only a one run lead," Lonnberg said. "I think most pitchers do because it's better that way. You don't have a tendency to let up."

Lonnberg certainly didn't let up through the whole game.

"I think he pitched a little better than in Boston," said Manager Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals.

Added St. Louis' Shannon: "I think I could see the ball today, but he still kept us boxed in."

Now all the Red Sox want is for Waslewski to keep the Cardinals in the box so Lonnberg can have a chance to drive in the nails.

"We had trouble like that last week and I think we will have to do something about it," declared Prothro whose Bruins beat Penn State last Saturday 17-15.

"You can't hear anything," McKay said in describing a visiting club at Notre Dame. "You have to go with what you call in the huddle."

The Trojan coach recalled the crowd din continues.

Asked if the same noise trouble wasn't found at every college game, McKay answered negatively and declared he will bring up the noisy crowd question before football's ruling body again after this season.

Colt Rookie Runs 94 Yards With Interception Volk Wins Defensive Award

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's Rich Volk, a newcomer to the National Football League big game hunt, already has one battered Bearskin in his trophy room.

Volk, who intercepted a fourth-quarter pass and raced 94 yards for his first pro touchdown last Sunday as the unbeaten Colts cuffed the Chicago Bears 24-3, was cited today by The Associated Press as the NFL's Defensive Player of the Week.

It was the third interception in four games for Volk, a 22-year-old rookie from the University of Michigan whose poised performance in the Colts' secondary has helped them reel off four victories in four starts.

Trailing 7-3 in a defensive struggle to Chicago, the Bears mounted a 74-yard drive to the Colts' eight early in the last period. Rudy Bukich then lofted a pass toward Brian Piccolo in the corner.

But Volk stole the ball on the six and took off down the sideline, breaking a last-ditch tackle by Bukich on the Bears' 35 and going the rest of the way unhindered.

turning point for us," groaned Papa Bear George Halas. "As it was, it was the turning point for us." "Piccolo ran a wide pattern but the pass wasn't too good," recalled Volk, who made the interception with his family and friends from Wauson, Ohio, watching from the stands. "It was a little behind him and since I was playing him tight, man-to-man, all I had to do was step in and intercept it."

Among other defensive nominees after last weekend's games were Dale Hackbart of Minnesota, Ray Nitschke of Green Bay and Ken Avery of New York.

Hackbart intercepted two passes, ran one back 21 yards for a TD, and forced a fumble to set up another score in the Vikings' 34-24 loss to St. Louis.

Nitschke, the Packers' All-League middle linebacker, cruised 20 yards with an intercepted pass to score the touchdown that keyed a fourth-quarter comeback enroute to a 27-17 triumph over Detroit.

Avery, a rookie linebacker from Southern Mississippi, cracked New Orleans' pass pocket on successive plays in the fourth quarter to nail Gary Cuzzo for two key nine-yard losses as the Giants outlasted the Saints 27-21.

Roberts Lauds Vikings' Play

allowed only nine pass completions out of 23 attempts by the Oles John Biolo came up with his fourth interception of the season and boosted the total numbers of pass interceptions by the Lawrence defense to nine in three games.

Davis played an excellent game, Roberts agreed. "He's a boy we knew had a lot of potential, but we have been using our veterans the first few games and did not get much of an opportunity to look some of these others over," Roberts added.

The Vikes did suffer one setback Saturday as Dave Mielke senior halfback, suffered a broken leg and will be lost for the remainder of the season. Mielke, who leads the team with eight pass receptions was injured after catching a pass and being tackled along the sidelines.

Roberts said it is likely that sophomore Tom Vanderhyden, of Menasha, will replace Mielke in the starting lineup for the homecoming tilt.

In Cornell, the Vikes will be meeting another offensive power. Last Saturday the Rams rolled to a 40-19 victory over Monmouth with quarterback Dick Sziah firing three touchdown passes to ace Joe Campanelli who plays at an end spot

Drugs: I start the contest with "RUGS".

The next player in the car must follow with his or her word formed of two or more of the letters in "RUGS". Continue to play until someone fails to come up with a word that has not previously been used. That player is given a demerit of five points and a new game starts with another kind of store name.

Figures 1, 2, 3, and 4 in the illustration show some of the signs the players are almost sure to see and some of the words that can be formed of the letters. There is a wealth of material to keep the game going for a long time.

At the end of the trip the player with the fewest demerits is the winner.

Soviets Likely at Base Sprawling Military Complex Left in Flames by U.S. Planes

SAIGON (AP) — American Navy plane today attacked and left burning a sprawling military compound near Haplong where Russian missiles and helicopters are uncrated and assembled.

It was likely that Soviet technicians work in the base, which previously was on the Pentagon's restricted target list.

U.S. headquarters said all-weather intruder jets hit the base before dawn Monday and returned for a second predawn strike today. Pilots reported that flames and secondary explosions lighted the night sky.

Heavy new strikes on North Vietnam and the loss of an American jet to a Communist MIG21 in a dogfight was paralleled by sharp ground fighting and the movement of more American troops north to meet the threat of renewed North Vietnamese attacks below the demilitarized zone.

Weather Bad
Loss of a U.S. Air Force C130 transport missing since Sunday with 23 persons was confirmed. The U.S. Command announced the wreckage was spotted on a mountainside between Hue and Da Nang and no survivors were found. All the 18 passengers as well as the five crewmen were

Rockefeller-Reagan Best Ticket?

Poll Puts Nixon Far Out in Front of Romney

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has topped a nationwide Associated Press poll of Republican leaders who were asked to name their favorite for the GOP presidential nomination next year.

However, the strongest potential ticket would be composed of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, those participating in the survey replied. A Nixon-Reagan combination ran second.

Associated Press bureaus submitted a three-part questionnaire to the state chairmen and members of the GOP National Committee in all 50 states. About half replied.

The questions and results were:

1. Whom do you favor for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination?

Nixon—46 per cent
Gov. George Romney—26
Rockefeller—14
Reagan—7
Others—7
2. Which Republican has the best chance of defeating President Johnson?
Nixon—41 per cent
Rockefeller—25
Romney—23
Reagan—11
Others—13
3. What combination of candidates for president and vice president would offer the strongest ticket?
Rockefeller-Reagan—40 per cent
Nixon-Reagan—25
Nixon-Sen. Charles Percy—11
Romney-Reagan—11
Others—13
As expected, much of Nixon's support came from Republican leaders in the South and Southwest but he had votes in some Midwest and Far Western states as well.

Some of those who participated in the survey indicated that while they consider Nixon the GOP's best qualified candidate, they have misgivings as to whether he can win. He lost the presidential election in 1960 and the race for governor of California in 1962.

Said Idaho State Chairman John McMurray, "They (Idaho working Republicans) still have reservations. If he shows well in the early primaries Nixon will be hard to stop."

Similarly, Mrs. J. C. Mann, Texas national committeewoman said she considers Nixon the "best qualified" and that she has strongly supported him before. She added, "But I want somebody to win this time. I don't believe that the people who go to conventions and choose candidates are always representative of the way the people feel who will be voting."

A significant result of the poll was Reagan's strong showing. He was mentioned many more times than any other potential candidate as the choice for the vice presidential nomination.

"Reagan is coming up all the time," said Mrs. Tom Abernathy, Alabama national committeewoman. "He's looking better all over the nation and some others are not looking quite so good."

Replying to the question about the strongest ticket, a party leader said, "Rockefeller and Reagan—either way."

Rockefeller and Reagan have both said they are not candidates. Teaming, some of those questioned said, would give the party a balanced ticket which would appeal to both the conservatives and moderates.

Rockefeller ran ahead of Gov. George Romney of Michigan—whom he supports for the nomination—in answers to the question of which Republican would stand the best chance of beating the President. In some replies, GOP chiefs indicated they felt Romney's "brainwashing" statement may have cost him some support.

However, John C. Jordan, Pennsylvania state chairman said, "Our private polls show that Romney, or a Romney-type moderate, would be the strongest candidate we can nominate."

Soviets Release Defense Budget Of $18.5 Billion

15 Per Cent Jump Explained Due to Worldwide Tensions

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today a 15 per cent jump in its published defense spending with the explanation that "international tension demands increased attention to our defenses."

Finance Minister Vasily F. Garbuzov also explained the increase as being needed for "increased aid to other countries." He said the Soviet people staunchly support "the Vietnamese people against American imperialism and Arab nations against Israel."

Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, the Parliament which automatically approves budget proposals, that the 1968 budget will show 16.7 billion rubles—$18.56 billion—for defense, up 2.2 billion rubles—$2.44 billion—from 1967.

Others Hidden
Western experts believe that Soviet budget figures hide other military spending.

The increase is the largest in Soviet history.

The 1966-67 U.S. defense budget was $67 billion, and President Johnson has asked a $72.3 billion defense allotment for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

Garbuzov introduced a 1968 budget calling for total expenditure of 123.5 billion rubles, or $137.22 billion. Approval by the Supreme Soviet is a certainty.

9 Per Cent Hike

The 1968 total is an increase of 9 per cent over 1967 spending.

Before Garbuzov spoke the chief Soviet economic planner pictured a booming national economy with a few lags at points most directly touching the people.

Deputy Premier Nikolai K. Baibakov, head of the state planning commission, said Soviet national income has increased 7.2 per cent a year in 1966 and 1967.

Industrial production is running far ahead of plan and living standards are increasing faster than the people were promised at the beginning of this 1966-70 plan period, Baibakov claimed.

His statistics indicated that the growth of national income, reported as 7.5 per cent in 1966, had actually slipped this year, although still greater than the planned growth.

Promises Unfulfilled

Since Baibakov said the growth rate had averaged 7.2 per cent in the past two years and had been 7.5 per cent in 1966, it appeared that the rate had fallen in 1967.

Baibakov's figures also indicated that for the 10th straight year the Soviet Union has failed to fulfill its promises on how much new housing would be built for the cramped population.

Clintonville Man Aboard

CLINTONVILLE — A 40-year-old Clintonville man who intended to return home "if he didn't get a place on the ship," was among the crew of 42 aboard the stricken ship Panoean Faith, which sank off the Alaskan coast Monday evening.

James A. Dhein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Dhein, 132 Stewart St., was a mate on the ship, according to a list released today by Panoean Tankers Corp., the New York City firm which owns the vessel.

Several Rescued
Although late reports said several men had been rescued from the waters of the North Pacific, no word was available as to the fate of Dhein.

Mrs. Dhein, when contacted this morning by The Post-Crescent, said, "He called us on Sept. 30 and told us he would be coming home if he didn't get a place on the ship."

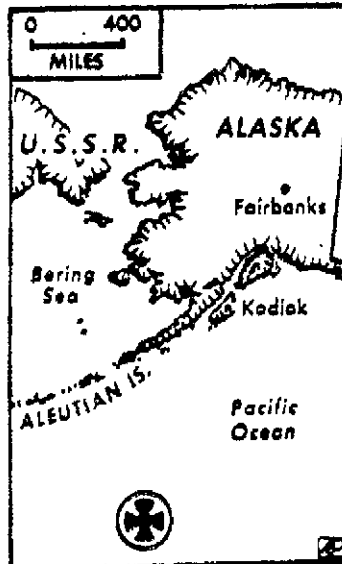

He managed to secure the place, she said, and boarded the ship two weeks ago.

Dhein, who has sailed aboard merchant vessels for the past 15 years, was last home in April, 1966.

Served in Army

He was born in Colby, Wis., and attended Carroll College in Waukesha and served in the Army from 1946 to 1948 before taking up a career on merchant vessels.

Mrs. Dhein said he has been aboard several vessels taking supplies to U. S. troops in South Vietnam.

Ships Hunt Survivors In Pacific

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Ships and planes converged on a spot in the North Pacific today where 42 crewmen jumped from a sinking freighter.

The Coast Guard said the crew of the Panoean Faith leaped into the water as the 459-foot vessel sank shortly before dark Monday about 870 miles southwest of Kodiak, Alaska.

One of five merchant vessels which sped to the rescue, the Igaharu Maru, radioed "some bodies" had been picked up and "two men were reported to be alive." In New York, the ship's owners reported the master of the vessel had been picked up.

Distress Signals

Military planes which flew to the scene just after radio calls for assistance were received from the stricken vessel dropped rubber life rafts to crewmen bobbing in life jackets, and the pilot of a Navy plane from Adak, Alaska, reported he saw several men climb into them.

The Panoean Faith, hauling fertilizer from San Francisco to India under a U.S. aid program, sank so quickly, the Coast Guard said, that the crew was unable to launch its two lifeboats or two liferats.

There was fear some who jumped from the vessel could not survive. Authorities said a person rarely lives longer than

Israelis, Arabs in 20-Minute Battle

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli and Jordanian troops fought a 20-minute gun battle across the Jordan River Monday night with machine guns and light arms, the Israeli army said today. There reportedly were no Israeli casualties.

An Israeli spokesman said an Israeli army truck was ambushed on a road near Jericho, the driver shot back and a patrol came to his aid. As the Arab attackers fled across the river, machine-gun fire opened up from the Jordanian side, the spokesman said. The Israelis returned the fire.

Ernesto "Che" Guevara was in the Bolivian jungle masterminding a revolution. Bolivian officials claimed when they released this photo recently. They say it was captured from guerrillas. He was killed in fighting Monday, according to the Bolivians. (AP Wirephoto)

First Flight of Apollo Shoved Back 4 Months

NASA Says That 'Intricate Little Details' Prohibit Manned Launch Until July, 1968

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, flight to take place in "third quarter, 1968," meaning next July at the earliest — perhaps August.

Originally, astronauts were due to test the moonship in space last February, but on Jan. 26, a month shy of launch, the prime crew for the first Apollo flight died when the craft caught fire during a ground test at Cape Kennedy.

Until Monday, NASA stood by plans to make the shot with the new crew no later than March of 1968. It had become clear in recent days, however, that the target was impossible.

Last week AP aerospace writer Howard Benedict disclosed that North American Rockwell Corp., prime contractor for the Apollo craft, was trying to talk NASA into a May, 1968, delivery date for the new fireproofed craft.

A Manned Spacecraft Center spokesman said talks ended last week with March as a compromise date. It will take technicians at Cape Kennedy four months to ready the craft for flight, pushing the launch back into July at the earliest.

Funds Okayed for UW-GB Site Work

Claim Move Will Aid in Meeting 1969 Deadline; Martin Dissents

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — On a 6-2 vote, the state Building Commission Monday approved the release of $73,600 for the first on-site development work for new University of Wisconsin branch campuses in Green Bay and Kenosha County.

The move came over the objection of Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, who attempted to block the move by arguing that no actual construction work should be done on the new schools until the completion of working drawings.

The move was suggested by UW officials and staff analysts who calculated that it could save up to 10 days in their attempts to open the new schools on schedule in September, 1969.

The authorization does not include the power to lay foundations for the four buildings on the two campuses. Many of the staff analysts feel that that step would be the most important one now possible in attempting to win the battle against the calendar and complete the schools on time.

Foundation Excavation
The release of the funds — of which $39,100 will be used at the UW-GB — will allow the start of some site preparation work and the excavation needed for the foundations.

State engineer, Ralph Culbertson, told the commission, in response to Martin's objections, that the work, including the excavations, could be done before the completion of the working drawings because the broad outlines of the buildings are already known.

Two structures are planned on each campus.

Voting with Martin was Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, who has opposed every move in the planning of the new campuses since they were first suggested four years ago.

The motion to release the funds was seconded by Assemblyman Robert Kordus, D-Milwaukee, who has in the past been a staunch supporter of Martin's "go-slow" position in the planning of the Green Bay campus.

Strong Pressures

Kordus has recently been under strong pressures from fellow Democratic Assemblyman George Molinaro of Kenosha not to block the development of the two campuses.

Kordus has lost in past attempts to split the two campus development plans into separate issues and has in the course of the battles slowed the development of Molinaro's pet Parkside campus, located in Kenosha County.

Backers of the Green Bay campus in the battle to win full development in the face of strong Appleton area opposition have kept the two campus questions together in strategic moves designed to win southern Wisconsin backing — including that of Molinaro — for the Green Bay campus as well.

Molinaro also spent considerable time before the meeting of the two campuses. Many of the staff analysts feel that that step would be the most important one now possible in attempting to win the battle against the calendar and complete the schools on time.

Voting with the majority were Gov. Warren P. Knowles, commission secretary Gerald Emmer, Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, Kordus, Gee, and Sen. William Hansen, Stevens Point.

Nursing Home Owner Cleared Of Abuse Count

Waupaca Judge Says Evidence Is Insufficient

WAUPACA — After hearing testimony from several witnesses Monday, County Judge Wendell McHenry ordered that charges of abusing a patient brought against Mrs. William G. Ross, operator of the Waupaca Rest Home, be dismissed.

Judge McHenry, who heard the case without a jury, ruled there was insufficient evidence to prove that Mrs. Ross had struck a patient at the rest home as charged by the Waupaca County Welfare Department after a Sept. 11 incident.

The elderly male patient had allegedly been struck on the legs and head. He is no longer a patient at the rest home, but still is a welfare case.

Denies Charge

Mrs. Ross, who testified in her own defense, said she did not know how the patient received the bruises he suffered, but said they could have come from a fall. She denied striking the man with a 2 by 4 board as charged, by another patient who testified that Mrs. Ross struck the other man on the elbow and knee.

There was no evidence of bruises on the patient's arms or knees, Mrs. Ross and Dr. Kenneth Haman, testified. Dr. Haman was called by the welfare department to examine the patient after the alleged incident.

The patient, who allegedly was struck, is mentally unstable and unable to care for himself, Dr. Haman testified.

The day the incident allegedly occurred, Mrs. Ross said the patient left his room and went to a first floor room. When she told him he would have to return to his room he became unruly and she needed the assistance of an employee of the home to get the patient back to his room. But, at no time did she or the other employee strike the patient as was charged, Mrs. Ross said.

Employees Testify

Three employees of the home testified Mrs. Ross did not strike the patient or abuse him in any way.

The charges were brought against Mrs. Ross after a former employee reported to the sheriff's department that she found blood on the patient's bed sheets, and that the patient had

9-County Zoning Ordinance Presented to Commission

Model Is Preliminary, Will be Modified by Individual Counties

A comprehensive model shoreline and flood plane zoning ordinance was presented for discussion Monday morning by members of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NWRPC) meeting at the Home Mutual Building.

The model was prepared by the staff of the NWRPC and was designed to aid counties in preparing their own ordinances required by state law on Jan. 1, 1968.

William E. Morris, executive director of the NWRPC said the model ordinance would have to be modified to meet the individual needs of each of the counties in the organization.

The counties include Calumet, Forest, Menominee, Langlade, Outagamie, Shawano, Waupaca, Waushara and Winnebago.

Report Is Preliminary

Morris stressed that the report of the model was only preliminary and would need further work before it is ready for passage by county boards.

The ordinance itself outlines shoreland zoning regulations for areas within 1,000 feet of the normal high water elevation of a lake, pond or flowage; 300 feet from the normal high water elevation of a river or stream; and 300 feet from the shoreline of existing and future artificial public waterways.

The model goes into considerable detail on general shoreland zoning provisions. It also outlines provisions and jurisdiction the counties will have over flood plain areas.

Administrative procedures for the ordinance will be the same

New London Orders Plans for School

Set January Deadline for District Study

NEW LONDON — A January deadline for compiling data and getting detailed preliminary plans for a new elementary school was set Monday by the board of education.

An interim study will include present enrollments at McKinley and Dale schools, projected increase for the next two or three years, probable construction of at least two extra classrooms and the bonding status of the district.

Edgar A. Steubenrauch and Associates, Sheboygan architectural firm, was designated to make preliminary drawings for the school which probably would be constructed on a district-owned site about two blocks south of the senior high school on Werner-Allen Road.

Site Report
A site report was given by Albert L. Buechner, State Department of Public Instruction representative, and by H. James Gabriel from the architectural firm.

The proposed site is about six acres in area. Buechner suggested the district contact the city about using facilities at Hatten Park, across Werner-Allen Road, for special recreational activities.

Plans will be prepared for about 12 classrooms and additional educational facilities such as special education rooms, a recreation area, library and other special centers.

Study Finances

Supt. H. James Ramsdell said a study of the district's financial status would have to be made. Monday night although firemen fought several hours to quell the blaze. The farm is located 2 miles west of Charlesburg on County Trunk H.

Ramsdell said it was easy to determine the enrollment for two or three years in advance, but after that it became "calculated guess work."

The school district is faced with an exploding population in the city and crowded school facilities in the Readfield, Dale and Medina areas. The poor physical condition of the McKinley School in New London is another problem facing the district.

An anti-insurance policy was purchased from the E. Ned Demming Insurance Agency, although the bid of $7,328 was not low.

Board members split 4-3 on awarding the contract to Demming. Everett Collins' bid of $7,340 was the lowest of four bids, Demming's was second low.

Hay Lost

Lost in the blaze, besides the hay, were some oats and straws being stored in the barn. Two large silos filled with silage and located near the barn were damaged. No machinery was being housed in the barn.

A barn cleaner and stainless steel bulk tank stored in the structure were also saved.

Barn Destroyed in Rural Chilton Fire

Blaze Discovered Monday Night; Cattle Driven From Structure

CHILTON — Fire destroyed a 48 by 100 foot barn on the Roman and Ervin Suttner farm not been determined.

Monday night although firemen fought several hours to quell the blaze. The farm is located 2 miles west of Charlesburg on County Trunk H.

About 75 tons of hay, a full year's supply, was also lost in the fire. No one was injured.

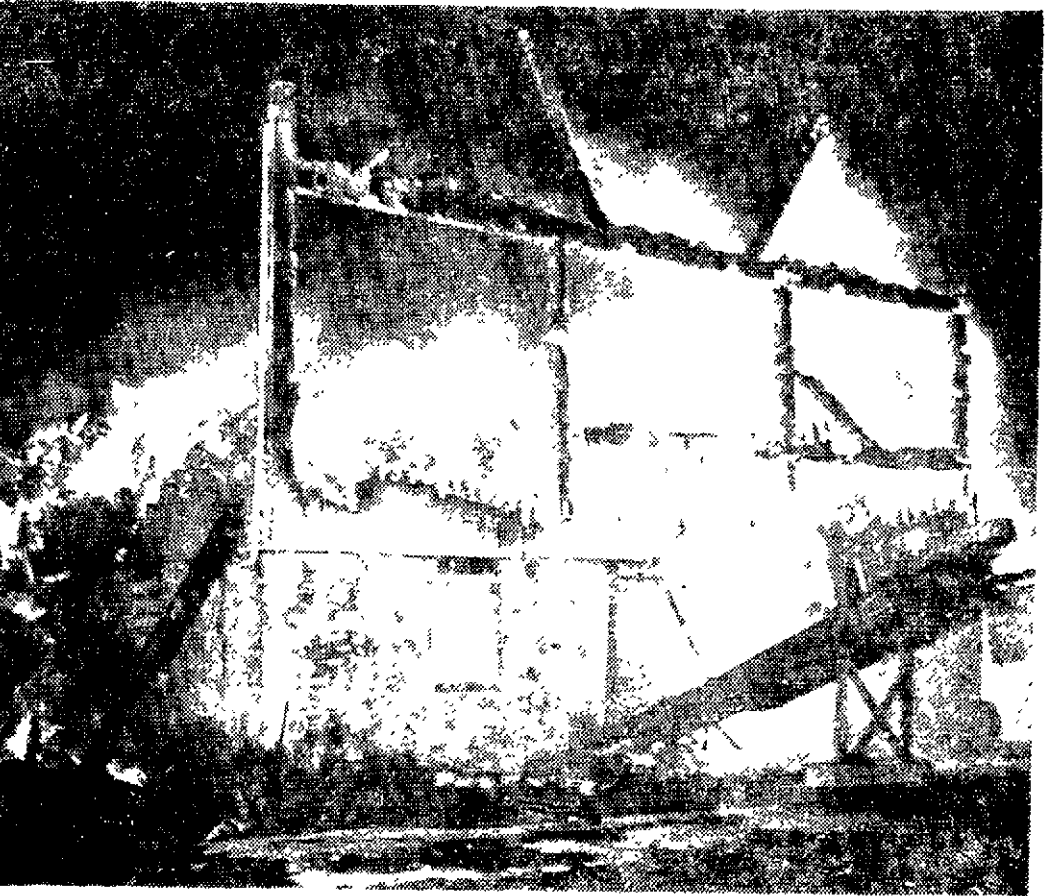

The fire was discovered at the west end of the barn about 8:15 p.m. as Ervin Suttner Sr., owner of the farm, was leaving his son's home to return to his own home. The three men immediately went to the barn and released 35 head of milk cows and young stock which were being housed in the barn for the first time this season.

Milwaukee Marchers Continue Relentlessly

'...Gonna Keep on A-Walkin' Down to Freedom Land...'

BY JACKIE KRUG
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Ain't gonna let nobody turn me 'round, gonna keep on a-walkin' down to freedom land..."

The words of the marching song sung by Milwaukee open housing demonstrators express their nearly unbelievable determination. With the number of consecutive days of marching now numbering in the 40's, there are no signs of fatigue or frustration among members of the Milwaukee Council of the NAACP youth organization.

Organization is the keynote of demonstrations led by the youth council under the advisorship of the Rev. James Groppi of St. Boniface Catholic Parish. There is no time for anything slipshod, for any clowning. March leaders will not tolerate it.

The strength behind the Milwaukee NAACP youth council is the highly organized commando unit. Some of them are high school students, some of them are of high school age but have left school and are working, some range in the 20 to 22 age group.

Karate Training

They have been trained in judo and karate and execute their job of leading the demonstrations with military precision. It is the commandos who, with the advice of Father Groppi, plan the marches.

A head commando is selected weekly on a rotating basis. It is his responsibility to decide where each march will go. He alone knows the destination.

Prelude to each march is a rally, usually held in the sanctuary of St. Boniface church. Demonstrators fill the pews and respond to rally leaders with freedom songs and loud shouts of "Black Power."

A young girl with a microphone and blasting PA system bells Negro "soul" songs adapted to the open housing movement and invites demonstrators to clap and join in the singing. "See that," she points to the beautiful vaulted ceiling of the sanctuary, "we want to raise the roof in here."

And the trick is nearly accomplished with deafening choruses of the spiritual "Amen" and the chant, "beep, beep, umgauwa, black power."

Commando Speeches

Speeches by commandos, sometimes Father Groppi and the testimony of the leaders of out of town groups that have come to join the marches flow the singing. The fever pitch of the group builds from the rally's rather quiet beginning to the fantastic noisy show of enthusiasm just prior to the beginning of the march and is climaxed by a long impromptu prayer.

Marchers are lined up three abreast across the sidewalk and less than arm's length from the trio ahead. Commandos are spaced at intervals along the line in the street and move with the march.

They pace the march admonishing demonstrators to "keep it tight," "keep it moving," and because they leave an opening for hostile outsiders and because they cause marchers to run to close the line adding the danger of injury to marchers.

Safety of the demonstrators is the primary concern of the commandos. At street intersections they are stationed in front of waiting cars until the march has passed. In doorways where spectators have gathered to watch the phenomena, commandos stand arms crossed, feet apart staring expressionless into the eyes of watchers until demonstrators have moved on safely.

Searched Boys

At the beginning of Saturday's march, commandos spotted a group of about six Negro boys walking on the opposite side of the street. They were questioned and searched to see if they carried any bottles, bricks or other things that, if thrown, could cause an incident and danger to the marchers across the street.

Much of the march route is hardly a pleasant sight. The near northside slums are crowded and dirty. In a space between two of the decaying homes garbage cans and crates overflow with assorted refuse. Several large rats use the area as a playground.

Each block has at least one

Hilton Board May vamp Policies

Updating Could Include Method of Handling Teacher Complaints

CLINTONVILLE — The school board considered updating its policies Monday evening.

Members would include handling of complaints and grievances of teachers under a plan endorsed by the Wisconsin State Board of School Boards.

Duties of principals as superintendents in inter-school and hiring professional people; and teachers one day each visit other classes in schools with permission of principal or superintendent.

Revision would be made for each eighth or their annual eighth-annual trip. The student remainder through the further revisions in detail later.

Arthur Horst suggested the board consider a revision of each school's evaluation of each teacher on a quarterly basis. Evaluation would aid in negotiations with teachers and would serve as a basis where a teacher's action was taken.

Truckers finished in the first five places, to rack up the first perfect score in the senior high school's history, in blanking the Waupaca Comets Friday.

Trucker scoring was by Rodney Christianson, first; Kevin Korb, second; Mark Paape, third; Doug Olson fourth, and Mark Pandrey, fifth. Korb and Pandrey are sophomores.

Tom Mack led the Trucker B team to a 25-30 win.

CLINTONVILLE — The Rev. Raymond P. Dowling, Holy Family College, Manitowoc, discussed "The Christian's Right to be Civil" Sunday as more than 300 members attended the Calumet County Deanery Holy Name Society corporate communion, mass and breakfast at Holy Rosary Church, New Holstein.

Father Dowling discussed civil rights and the right to be in Vietnam. He traced American history from Illinois Forge to the present, and said "being a good Christian means being a good American."

He stressed the necessity for dialogue and pointed out that after talking, an individual must make up his own mind. He compared the Milwaukee disturbances to the persecution of the Irish, Jews and other groups.

Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, discussed the proposed tri-county merger. Hephner said he did not have all the answers but felt that if a merger came, Calumet eventually would lose its representation.

Due to the illness of Rev. Walter Tuschel, spiritual director of the deanery and pastor of Holy Trinity Church, Jericho, future meetings of the group have not been scheduled.

CLINTONVILLE — Damage was estimated at more than $100 in a three-car accident at 7:23 p.m. Sunday on U.S. 45 at the entrance of Bucky's Drive In.

City police said a car driven by Douglas C. Hiler, 17, route 2, was headed north on U.S. 45 and had stopped for oncoming traffic to make a left turn into the drive-in. A car driven by Arthur E. Kulibert, 61, 152 E. Madison St., Clintonville, was also stopped when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Victor J. Rhoden, 22, 508 Shawano St., New London. The impact shoved Kulibert's auto into the rear of the Hiler car, police reported.

None of the men were injured. Donald P. Talady, 18, 306 W. Spring St., escaped injury when the car he was driving ran off River Road and broke down on a barbed-wire fence at 3:55 p.m. Sunday.

Steam Engine Enthusiasts gathered at Weyauwega's Horse and Buggy Days to compare "steamers" which were in abundance at the celebration. ## School Board Criticizes Hasty Action New London Fears VTE-12 Dynasty

NEW LONDON — Hasty action and inadequate advance notice of the budget hearing of Vocational and Adult Education (VTE-12) came under sharp criticism from the New London Board of Education Monday.

Eugene Fuhrmann, vice president, said, "I am dissatisfied; the budget was handled poorly. Municipalities were notified about how much they were to pay toward the VTE-12 budget without being told of where, how, or what the money was being spent for."

"The board shouldn't attempt to railroad the budget through," Fuhrmann added. "Unless this procedure is stopped, we won't know in a year or two what is going on in the district."

Fuhrmann warned, "If this is allowed to continue, a vocational dynasty will be created, over which we will have no control."

Mrs. Harold Markman stated that the vocational program was acted on hastily from the start and that the program has seemed to gain momentum.

Supt. H. James Ramsdell, a member of the VTE-12 board, agreed that many things were done in haste, but pointed out that the board had a strict timetable that it had to follow.

Ramsdell said an area administrators meeting also indicated there was a quite a bit of concern over the budget hearing and notification. Inadequate time to study the budget was the main concern, he added.

Predicts increase in Vocational costs from $3,000 to $29,000 in New London alone. Ramsdell said. He said the tax rate was $1.07 per $1,000 equalized valuation this year and that it would likely hit the $2 per $1,000 limit in a few years.

Fred Bernegger said the VTE-12 district was new and had to start somewhere. However, it appeared it was overlooking the original concern — educating and training high school dropouts for skilled jobs.

Fuhrmann suggested a letter be drafted and sent to area boards of education, municipal governments, state legislatures and news media expressing the local board's views. His suggestion was approved by fellow members.

New London's city council received the VTE-12 budget last week without expressing any severe criticism, though they were concerned about the way budget had been handled, and about the sharp increase in vocational education costs.

NEW LONDON — A lecture series to investigate the renewal taking place in the Catholic Church will begin at 8 p.m. today at Most Precious Blood Catholic School.

Recreation Group Okays Park Plan

Eye $44.8 Million to Develop, $49.9 Million to Buy New Sites

MADISON — The governor's task force on the Outdoor Recreation Act Program (ORAP) met recent criticism of legislators Monday, when at the end of a day-long session in Madison it approved $44.5 million to develop park and recreational lands by 1980.

Recognizing, however, that the primary intent of ORAP, and the one-cent a pack tax on cigarettes to pay for it, was to acquire park lands before they were priced out of the state budget, the task force also approved $49.4 million to buy 510,000 additional acres of recreational lands.

Under the proposed program, approximately half rather than the present 40 per cent, of the cost of operating and maintaining these state lands would be paid for by the user public.

The program committee, which met Monday, morning, along with other committees, recommended at the afternoon session that the Natural Resources Board give full consideration to charging a higher out-of-state user fee before raising resident fees. A bill now before the legislature would raise state park annual sticker fees from $2 to $3.

Task Force
The ORAP plan as proposed by the 18-month-old task force is expected to be sent soon to Gov. Warren P. Knowles and to the legislature which will open its fall term Oct. 17.

Task force approval of a tentative plan was given at a meeting last January. However, the problem of financing remained, and this finally has been worked out with a three-pronged recommendation.

To accelerate a permanent program, rather than the 10-year plan called for under the original ORAP bill, the task force approved transferring the cigarette tax to the general fund. Since this tax is equal to 65/10,000 of 1 per cent of the equalized value of physical property in Wisconsin, the formula would apply annually.

Bonding and user fees would supplement the general fund income.

Added to the proposal since January was the creation of two new year-around youth conservation camps in southeastern Wisconsin. Each camp would accommodate 1,000 boys for group camping when not used as work camps.

Compensate Governments

Another proposal would compensate local governments for all state recreational land acquisition in an amount equal to full property taxes at the time of acquisition, and in decreasing amounts over a 10-year period. Ten annual payments would be made, starting at 100 per cent the first year and decreasing 10 per cent each year thereafter.

The task force local tax base committee, although approving the plan, urged further study of the impact of state purchase on local communities with the possibility that payments be made according to state zones rather than on a flat rate, and that a review board be set up to hear complaints from local governments.

In other action the task force recommended the creation of new lakes, preservation of historic sites on a planned program, addition of wild rivers preservation, adequate funding for tourist information centers, funding for highway easements, acceleration of water inventory and use planning, and expansion of local aid for parks in large metropolitan areas such as southeastern Wisconsin and the Fox Valley.

Postal Department Employees Honored For Safe Driving

KAUKAUNA — Five drivers for the postal department received safe driving awards from the National Safety Council recently, the awards presented by Robert Grogan, postmaster, to the men who drive daily and have accident free records.

Jack Tulloch received a 15-year award, Donald Wenzel a 14-year award, Edward Kaphingst, eight years; Robert Wittman, six years and George Vanden Hogen, five years.

CLINTONVILLE — Mrs. Edna Lacy, Adams, 7th District president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Auxiliary, will conduct the yearly inspection of the Auxiliary at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the VFW club house.

Planners Offer Model Control For Floodplains

NWRPC Prepares Zoning Ordinance for Member Counties

A model shoreline and floodplain zoning ordinance prepared by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NWRPC) will be modified and sent to member counties for consideration within the next two weeks, according to William E. Morris, NWRPC executive director.

County board members, planners and agriculture agents met Monday to discuss the ordinance. Relatively few objections were voiced, but points were raised that will require some modifications.

Morris said the meeting helped members' understanding and will aid in developing fairly uniform ordinances throughout the commission's nine-county area.

Meet Needs

The ordinance — modeled somewhat after other ordinances prepared by the state, the University of Wisconsin Extension Service and the County Boards Association — was prepared to meet the particular needs of the nine-county area, he said.

"But this is only a model ordinance," Morris said. "Each county will have some points it may have to change to fit the ordinance to their particular needs."

Morris said the NWRPC will continue to aid member counties after they have passed shoreline ordinances. This will come through helping zoning administrators and committees understand all aspects of their particular ordinance.

Aid Members

The NWRPC staff also will help member counties write up their ordinance. This is currently being done in some of the counties and will take from six to eight weeks, Morris said.

Shoreline and floodplain zoning ordinances are required by the state in each county by Jan. 1. For those counties not having such ordinances by that time, the state will have the right to prepare an ordinance, at the county's expense.

Public hearings will be conducted in each county before a final ordinance is adopted.

Young Prowler Caught in Chilton Home

CHILTON — A 13-year-old boy suspected of a series of prowling incidents here was surprised early Monday morning and taken into custody by city police.

Police Chief Dan Albedyll said the boy was captured by George Yerkman, Reed Street, at 6 a.m. after Mrs. Yerkman was awakened by noises in the home.

Police said there have been three other complaints of prowlers, all occurring early in the morning.

The boy, who has no previous record, was turned over to his parents.

scuffle as Father Groppi was arrested.

In attempts to confuse police, commandos leading the march make abrupt changes in direction. Often the long march is split into as many as three groups forcing police to split and shift their positions.

U-Turn by Marchers
In one instance when Saturday's march reached downtown Milwaukee's Wisconsin Avenue, groups of demonstrators on both sides of the street marched east along the sidewalk to Sixth Street and made an abrupt U-turn and walked west to Third Street leaving police patrol wagons caught in a maze of traffic and forcing them to make U-turns in the middle of the block.

Police Protection
The role of Milwaukee police appears to be protection of the marchers as a preventative to sporadic violence that might erupt if marchers were confronted by persons hostile to their actions.

Knowing that the police must provide protection for the march, leaders make every effort to confuse and frustrate the police in attempts to "wear them out." Police are never informed of the destination of the march and must locate it and organize their tactics as it proceeds.

Saturday's march was about 20 minutes underway before any significant number of police arrived along the line. A relatively small group of helmeted officers on foot and motorcycles carrying riot sticks and a few patrol cars appeared when the march was still in Milwaukee's predominately Negro northside.

As soon as marchers began to cross the long 16th Street viaduct leading to the southside Polish district, large numbers of riot police arrived in patrol wagons which moved at the pace of the walkers at the near curb.

Unmarked Cars

A number of unmarked patrol cars crept along the route of the march with plain clothed officers whose duty it was to survey the marchers noting the number of whites and Negroes and attempting to discern the percentage of marchers who were from out of town. The unmarked patrol cars could be mistaken for press cars except for the fact, as one Tapio, while Walter Blank, veteran of the Milwaukee demonstrations pointed out, the license number of all of the city's unmarked police cars begins with the letter Z.

Judge McHenry said the welfare department acted properly in removing the patient from the rest home in view of the evidence they had obtained.

However, he said additional testimony Monday gave no proof that Mrs. Ross struck the patient or abused him in any way; therefore the charges should be dismissed.

East Students Stage A 'Firstcoming'

When a high school's never had a graduating class, nor a previous football season, it's pretty hard to plan a homecoming. That was the situation at the new Appleton High School-East this season, as the school is involved in its first year of operation.

Everything is new, and everything is a 'first.'

The students got around the 'homecoming' problem by having a 'firstcoming,' carrying out an 'East Side Story' theme. The dance was held Saturday evening in the school commons, with all the proper accoutrements carried out.

Steve Shepard and Amy Worthen served as co-chairmen of the event, assisted by Sally Skutely, decorations: Amy Piper, tickets: Kris Lueck, refreshments: Pam Pointer, publicity, and Nancy Troemel and Niki Graham, floats and parade.

Appeal Fails

Rev. King to 'Willingly' Return for Jail Sentence

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he will go to jail "willingly and in clear conscience" following the U.S. Supreme Court's rejection of his appeal from a five-day sentence for a 1963 demonstration in Birmingham, Ala.

Informed of the court's refusal to reconsider its 5-4 decision of last June, King said in a statement Monday the Supreme Court "turned its back on an appeal to reason and the most fundamental freedom that all Americans cherish."

He said the case grew out of the 1963 movement which led to the 1964 civil rights act and the punishment "is a small price to pay for such an invaluable achievement. I shall willingly and in clear conscience go to jail along with my colleagues in Birmingham to make a witness for my basic beliefs."

A spokesman said King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, would voluntarily return to Alabama to pay the penalty when the final papers are processed, probably in a month.

The court last June by a 5-4 vote affirmed the conviction of King and seven other Negro ministers.

'Imperialist' Jazz Arrives in Havana

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — American music, usually unavailable in Communist Cuba except on black market records, blares away on a new Havana Radio program, "Panorama del Jazz."

Featured on the program, heard six nights a week, are recordings of the early 1950s vintage. Disc jockey Reinerio Flores identifies each number and the orchestra.

Refugees from Cuba have reported that residents there have been paying as much as $40 per album for "imperialist" records.

Despite Polls

Democrats Betting LBJ's Policy Best

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are betting an upswing in popular acceptance of President Johnson's Vietnam war policies will pull him through a tough battle with the Republicans for re-election in 1968.

Their spirits obviously dampened by the President's current low standing in the polls, members of the Democratic National Committee are banking that in the long pull Johnson's course in fighting a limited war in Asia will win over any alternative Republicans may offer.

They quickly approved Monday a resolution endorsing Johnson's policies at home and abroad. There was no mention that this seemed the only road open to a party so tightly controlled by an incumbent president that his nomination is regarded as inevitable.

Widespread Dissent
Recognizing the present widespread dissent to Johnson Vietnam policies, a resolution sponsored by Illinois committeeman Jacob M. Arvey said "in both foreign and domestic policy President Johnson has consistently chosen to secure the future, rather than to yield to the dictates of short-term political gain."

The resolution, adopted unanimously with a brief patter of applause, said Johnson has sought "an honorable resolution of the conflict in South Vietnam, by which the people of that nation might be freed of terror and bloodshed and able to govern themselves in conditions of social freedom and justice."

It expressed "our conviction that Americans will always accept the responsibilities—domestic and foreign—required of a great free people and will stand behind the President in foul weather as in fair."

This seemed to spell out the belief of the Democrats that as time goes on, voters will become resigned to his conduct of the war with the feeling that no Republican opponent is likely to chart any more satisfactory course.

National chairman John M. Bailey discounted in an interview the need for any change in the rules of the 1968 convention — beginning Aug. 26 in Chicago—which would require delegates in advance to support the nominee.

"Anybody who goes to that convention will know that President Johnson is going to be the nominee," Bailey said. "Why would they even want to go as a delegate if they felt they couldn't support him in the general election?"

Committeeman Eugene L. Wyman of California, where dissenters have threatened to run a

2 Die as Plane Hits Downdraft

Former Costa Rican Ambassador to U.S. One of 2 Fatalities

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Passengers aboard an airliner that plunged 10,000 feet in a downdraft said Ricardo Castro Beeche, prominent Latin American newspaper publisher and former Costa Rican ambassador to the United States, was killed because his seat belt was not fastened.

Survivors said the safety belts saved their lives. Another passenger who did not buckle his belt, Claudio Loria Montenegro, was killed and a number of others, including Castro Beeche's daughter, Rosy Castro Canas, were injured.

The LASCA Airlines British twin-jet was due over Grand Cayman Island, 190 miles northwest of Jamaica, Monday when the plane hit a downdraft while 29,000 feet up, according to the airline.

'Everything Flew'
"A storm broke out and the seat belt signs flashed on and five minutes later we went straight down and everything flew to the roof," said Julio Brenes of Costa Rica.

"Whisky bottles, magazines and luggage fell all over," said Dr. Manuel Ibanez, a 32-year-old biology professor at Louisiana State University. "I thought it was a hell of a way to cash in my chips after spending the summer in the Amazon."

"There were four drops for a total of 2½ minutes."

But the two pilots were able to keep the plane flying and it landed in Grand Cayman.

Twelve of the uninjured survivors were flown to Miami, while the injured and the two bodies were flown to Costa Rica. Those arriving in Miami praised the two pilots, George Paris and Arturo Lutz.

Castro Beeche once ran for vice president of Costa Rica and held the post of foreign minister.

dump-Johnson delegation in the primary, suggested the loyalty oath. He got support from representatives of 13 western states where anti-Johnson sentiment seems to be running strongly.

Wyman agreed in a closed meeting to a compromise under which the National Committee would insert in the call for the 1968 convention a provision by which persons elected as delegates could be challenged if they made it clear in advance of the convention they did not expect to support the party nominees.

Marijuana Smoker Ends Up in Jail After Broadcasting His Guilt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The voice on the radio program said, "I was righteously stoned" on marijuana—and long-haired Griddle Lorimer Wright was met by police officers at 3 a.m. May 18 as he left the station.

The recording of the all-night "talk program" was played Monday at Wright's trial. The 33-year-old Yale graduate and former county deputy probation officer is charged with possessing marijuana.

"I had been smoking it all night," the recorded voice said, "and I was righteously stoned."

The police were notified of the statement by listeners and Wright was arrested after the show on which he was a guest. Officers said they found marijuana in his car.

Wright is fighting the case on the grounds antimarijuana laws violate his constitutional right to religious freedom.

Prisoner Escapes, but Leaves Shoes Behind

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A shoeless escapee from the Kanawha County jail was recaptured in downtown Charleston Monday night.

Police said Gary Boggs, 37, of Akron, Ohio, had forgotten his footwear in a Sunday morning jailbreak. Officers said he protected himself against the cold pavement by stuffing cardboard in his socks.

He was consul general in New York in 1915 and ambassador to Washington from 1936 to 1940.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson admires a toy bulldog presented to her by the Yale University Political Union Monday night as a gift for her grandson, Patrick Lyndon Nugent. The student group's president, John J. O'Leary, expressed the hope that Lyn might be a Yale man some day. When wound, the toy plays the tune of the Yale song, "Bulldog, Bulldog. Bow-wow-wow." Saigon's Militant Buddhists Reach Settlement With Thieu

Compromise Reported on Long Dispute of Government Support

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's militant Buddhists apparently have reached a compromise with the government in their month-long argument over the government's support of a rival moderate Buddhist faction.

Thich (Venerable) Tri Quang, the longtime government foe and leader of the politically ambitious militants, ended a protest vigil in front of Independence Palace after 13 days. But three other monks stopped their in a face-saving move, the monk told a news conference. "Our struggle is not over at the present time."

The militant Buddhists were up in arms because Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu signed a decree recognizing a rival Buddhist sect as the official Buddhist church of South Vietnam.

Monks and nuns marched to

Promises Solution

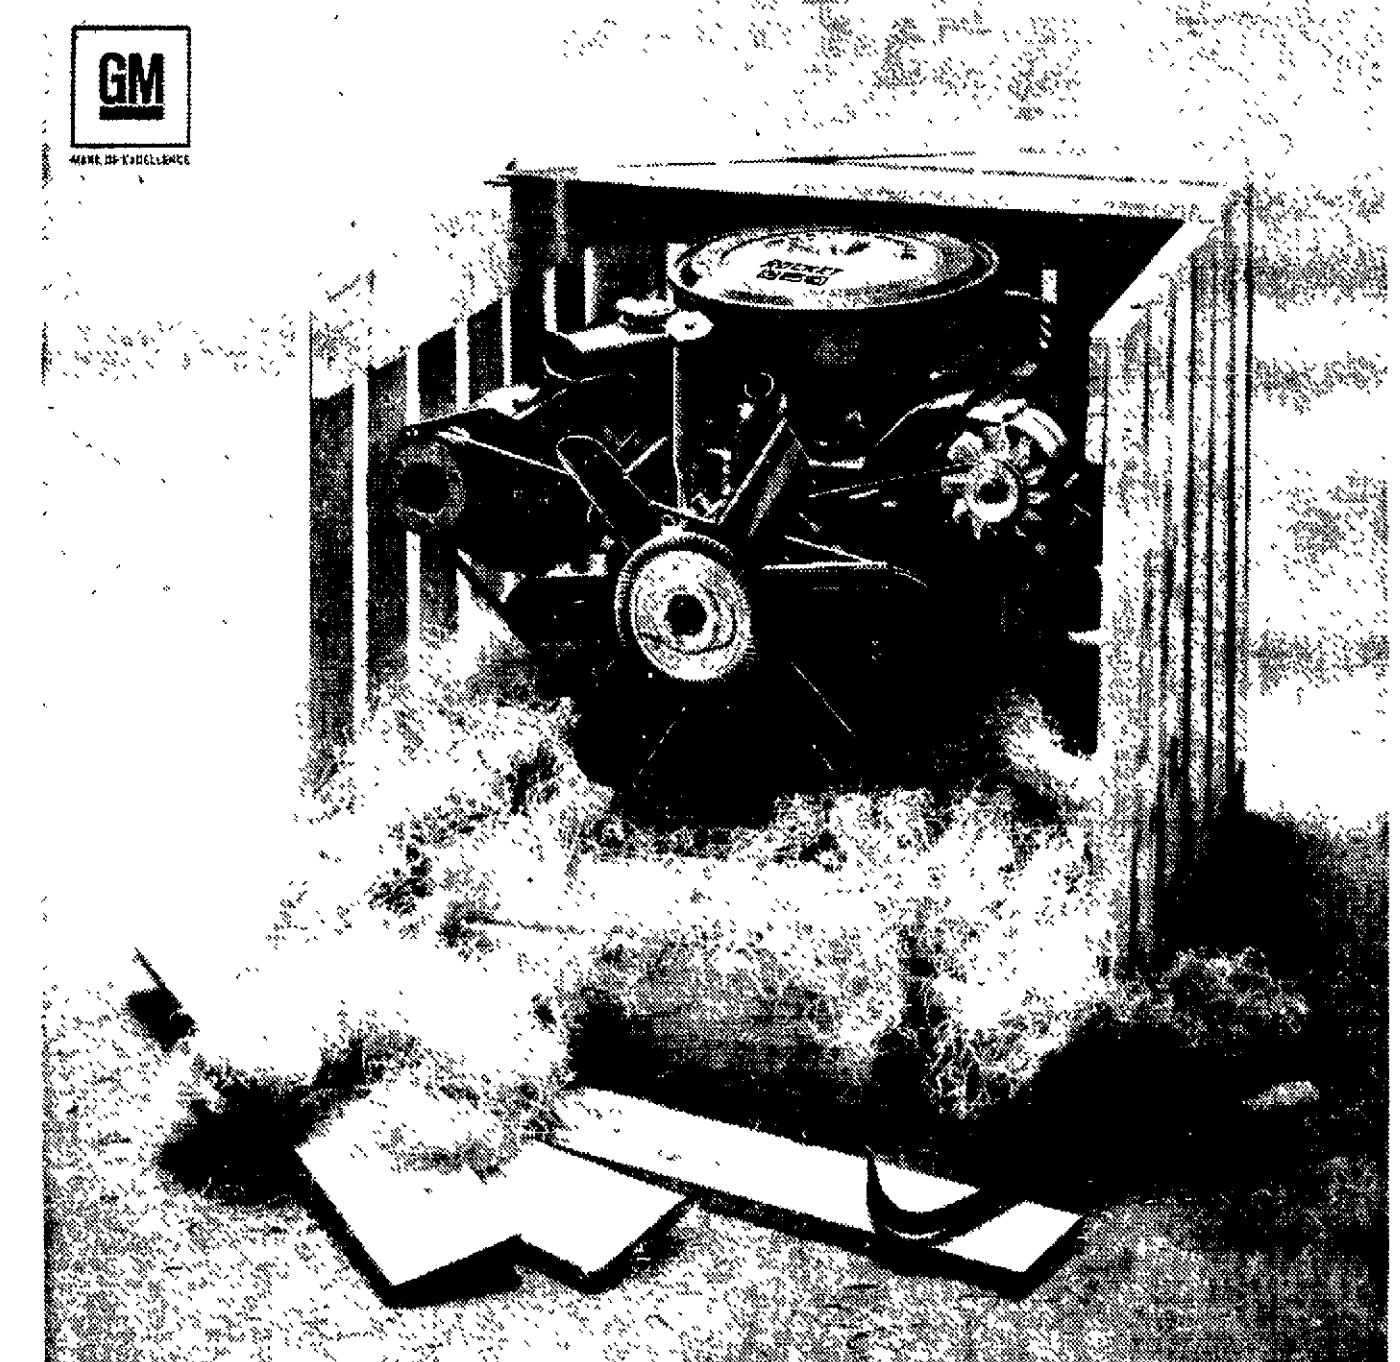

A compromise apparently was reached between Thieu and Thich Tinh Khiet, the Buddhist patriarch under the old charter law.

The commune was considered a call to Buddhists to hold off demonstrations for a while to see what solution Thieu and comes up with.

Chief's Home Ablaze In Fire Prevention Week

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — For the chief of the Ventura Fire Department, fire prevention week had a special meaning. His house caught fire.

The blaze which broke out at A. J. Comstock's house Sunday afternoon was quickly extinguished. The damage was listed at about $1,000.
